State Of Union Message May Be Defense Of Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State of the Union in 1974 will have a good deal to do with the state of the presidency. Spoken or unspoken, that will be a major concern when President Nixon addresses a joint session of Congress next Wednesday night.

The traditional ceremony of a State of the Union address cannot obscure the fact that the same Congress may be voting within a few months on impeachment proceedings against the President.

Meanwhile, the Senate Watergate committee plans six more days of hearings on the financing of Nixon's re-election campaign.

And the case of the erasure in a key White House tape recording is before a federal grand jury.

Against the background of those problems and more, the style and substance of Nixon's address may be crucial as he seeks to repair the ravages of Watergate.

The White House says Nixon now will concentrate on looking ahead. But the past will not go away.

A backward look, to the situation one year ago, illustrates what has happened. Then the President was the dominant figure, even though Democrats controlled Congress. Now, the crucial verdict, on the future of Nixon's presidency, is up to Congress.

Fresh from his landslide reelection, Nixon was on the offensive. He cast the presidency as paramount: "... There is only one place in this government where somebody has got to speak not for the special interests which the Congress represents, but for the general interest."

Now, after a year of scandal, Nixon's spokesmen are insisting that he means to serve the balance of his term and will not resign.

Then, he addressed the State of the Union in a series of written statements sent to Congress by messenger.

Nixon outlined his goals, said he believed his second term could be "the best four years in American history."

Now, after a troubled year, it is time for another assessment.

25 Schoolboys Succumb In Boarding School Fire

HEUSDEN, Belgium (AP) — Twenty-five schoolboys died during the night in a fire that burned out a dormitory of a Roman Catholic boarding school in this small town in northeast Belgium, police say.

Police said 47 other young boys escaped from the building.

The blaze may have been caused by a youngster smoking in bed and falling asleep, police sources say. The electricity in the building was still working when the firemen arrived.

Most of the victims were asphyxiated in their beds and apparently did not wake up before the flames caught them. Police said rescuers found the charred bodies of the children in the ruins of the red brick building.

A window between the dormitory and an exit staircase was found closed.

It could have served as an escape route, but apparently no one tried to open it.

The dormitory building was one of a group of brick, concrete and glass buildings at the School of the Sacred Heart, operated by the St. Francis Brothers.

One source said there were 225 other boarders in the school, but the fire did not spread to their dormitory buildings.

The dormitory that burned was built in 1926 and had three stories. The fire broke out on the top floor, where the boys slept in cubicles, separated from each other by wooden partitions.

The children sleeping on other floors fled by the building staircase.

Local authorities said it appeared the fire caught slowly at first, giving off thick fumes that asphyxiated the children, and then burst into roaring flames that fed quickly on the wooden panels between the beds.

Dirk Huysmans, a 15-year-old boy who attends the school but does not live in, gave this account in a telephone interview:

"It was about 10:45 p.m. I was in a cafe, with friends when we heard firemen from Hasselt, Heusden and Beringen rushing by.

"We decided to follow them immediately. When we arrived at the college, the whole third floor of the dormitory was in flame.

"Firemen rushed in. I think they saved about 100 boys.

"Some were so sound asleep, a fireman told me, that they had to shake them awake almost brutally.

"In a few minutes hundreds of panicky people had arrived, including families of children boarded at the school. Some were screaming and weeping while trying to break through a barrage of state police and firemen, trying to keep them away from the site. Some succeeded in breaking through, rushing toward the three-floor brick dormitory.

"Meanwhile young boarders in their pajamas were evacuated to a gymnasium, while many villagers were taking some of the children to their homes to comfort them and give them a bed. About 20 stayed for the night in the gymnasium.

Huysmans said the dormitory was on two floors of the three-floor building, and about 20 boys slept there. Altogether 500 boys attend the college, but some are not boarders.

Small Cars To Cost Buyers More

DETROIT (AP) — The big three auto makers are spending millions of dollars to meet American demands for small, easy-on-the-gas cars, and that money could come out of the consumer's pocketbook.

The economy car buyer could be faced with a bigger price tag.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are converting a total of five plants from big car to small car production and increasing the capacity of many small car assembly lines.

"We're moving as fast as we humanly can," says Ford President Lee Iacocca. "We'll make 350,000 more smaller cars this year than last, and we're converting our plants at enormous cost We're facing one hell of a crisis."

Iacocca says it's costing Ford $75 million to convert each of two plants, in Wayne, Mich., and Chicago to smaller car assembly.

General Motors and Chrysler declined comment on their conversion costs, but GM Chairman Richard Gerstenberg has said conversion is a big piece of GM's $1.3 billion capital expenditure program for 1974.

Iacocca said Ford would be ready to turn out two million small cars in its 1975 model run — about 80 per cent of its total production. Ford's Mustang II was the only small car introduced in the 1974 model year.

Chrysler, which converted its Newark, Del., assembly plant to compact production this month, says small cars now make up 56 per cent of its capacity.

General Motors, traditional leader in the big car field and hardest hit by layoffs due to slumping big car sales, is converting one plant to intermediate models and another to compacts this month.

In 1973, GM had 23 per cent of its production in small car lines. Spokesmen would make no estimate on 1974 figures.

Auto prices have already been boosted twice during the 1974 model year.

The first came during the late summer startup of 1974 model production when, with Cost of Living Council approval, GM boosted prices an average of $97, Ford $136, Chrysler $87 and American Motors $54.

The auto makers said that increase was to cover the cost of government-ordered safety features and optional equipment made standard.

The second boost came Dec. 10 when the auto industry was freed of price controls in return for an average $150 wholesale price increase.

Chrysler, Ford and General Motors upped the price on compacts by $150 and posted smaller increases for suddenly hard to sell big cars. While Chrysler declined such a promise, GM and Ford pledged not to raise prices again "unless forced by unforeseen major economic events."

The costs involved in converting production to meet the demand for smaller cars would seem to fit that criteria.

Find Woman Decapitated

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — The headless body of the wife of a former St. Augustine mayor has been found in the front yard of her home, police report.

Officers said they were called to the scene Wednesday night by neighbors who reported hearing screams from the home of Athalia Lindsley, about 50, wife of former mayor James Lindsley.

St. Johns County sheriff Dudley Garrett said Mrs. Lindsley's body had been decapitated by an unknown weapon. He said there was no sign of a struggle inside the house.

Police said Lindsley and his wife, who were married last September, occupied separate homes here.

Lindsley was twice mayor of St. Augustine, 1961-1963 and 1970-1972.

Truck Shutdown Gets Under Way

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than 75 truckers picketed at least 10 trucking firms in Akron and West Ridgefield, as a threatened truckers shutdown began, the Council of Independent Truckers said Thursday.

The demonstration would be kept peaceful, pledged Bob Young, a spokesman for the Akron-based organization which claims to represent more than 20,000 drivers in 40 states.

"This is the only peaceful way we know of shutting down the trucks. We're allowed up to two pickets at each gate, and that's what we'll have," Young said.

He said council supervisors were on the road checking to see that the demonstration remained peaceful.

The Summit County sheriff's office said no reports had been received about pickets.

Firms picketed included Consolidated Freightways and Pacific Intermountain Express, Young said.

The council has vowed to continue the protest until its demands for a ceiling on diesel fuel prices, release of additional diesel fuel stocks and an increase in freight rates are granted.

Young said council President George Rynn had returned from Washington "after making some headway" in his talks with federal officials there.

A coalition of truckers' organizations gathered in the nation's capital voted to support the strike today.

Rynn said the shutdown was "on" and would be effective. He said there had been no violence, that the men had just taken their rigs home and parked them.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported scattered incidents of trouble involving truckers overnight, but said there was no sign of the massive shutdown that has been threatened by some independent drivers.

About 50 truckers pulled into the Lorain County Fairgrounds at Wellington early today and began flagging down other truckers in an attempt to get them to join their protest, the patrol reported.

There were scattered reports of rock throwing and windshield breaking in the Lorain, Youngstown and East Liverpool areas.

The patrol said five trucks attempted to block U.S. 36 at the north edge of Coshocton about 3 a.m. today, but that the Coshocton County Sheriff's Department broke up the blockade.

President Will Fight Impeachment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will fight impeachment "right down to the wire," according to a group of congressmen who met with him on Wednesday.

Rep. G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., quoted the President as saying: "It's unthinkable that I will resign; I'll fight it right down to the wire."

"I got the impression that he is on the offensive and that he wants to get his message across," said Rep. Peter H.B. Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., who was a member of a group of congressmen who met with Nixon Tuesday.

Montgomery, commenting on the Wednesday meeting with 18 congressmen from southern and south-central states, said he "got the impression he (Nixon) is going to bore in more and more on doing his job."

Frelinghuysen quoted Nixon as saying that "under no circumstances could I consider resignation though it might not be a bad life to live" on a pension.

"In this country we could not allow the government to be overturned by a mass assault on the President," he quoted Nixon as saying.

He said Nixon told the congressmen that he has determined that "now is a time to fight and to fight like hell."

Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., said Nixon "said flatly he won't resign, but they could kick him out if they wanted to."

Javits Pushes For Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits has called for early action on the impeachment resolution against President Nixon now before a House committee.

"I believe we have an absolute right to insist on early action on the impeachment resolution," the New York Republican told reporters at his bi-weekly news conference.

"The national urgency is great to settle this question," he said.

Javits said the the impeachment prerequisite of alleged "high crimes and misdemeanors" means to him "a finding of unfitness to continue in office of the President of the United States ... for basic cause, on good evidence."

Javits said he is "fully prepared to vote on the basis of conscience" if the Senate tries Nixon.

Asked if he thought the President were guilty of an impeachable offense, he said: "I have not arrived at such a judgement."

Viet Bonus Measure Up For Assembly Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Prompt action is expected in the Ohio Senate on a bill that clears the way for payment of Vietnam veterans' bonuses that will be doubled if the veteran chooses to receive educational benefits.

The House gave unanimous approval Wednesday to the immediately effective bill after rejecting an attempt that would have had the state reimburse veterans who already have received their education.

Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, and other Republicans offered the amendment which he said would prevent discrimination "against those who made the mistake of going to school too early."

Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, the main sponsor, rejected the amendment on grounds it would add $91 million to the $300 million cost of the package without assuring that the extra money will be available.

Batchelder's amendment was tabled by a 55-33 party line vote.

In another unsuccessful amendment, Rep. Ray Luther, R-1 Newark, sought to make spouses and survivors of deceased veterans eligible to receive the educational benefits.

Under the measure, Vietnam era veterans will be paid $20 a month for Vietnam service, $15 a month for other overseas duty, and $10 a month for service in the United States. The maximums are $500 in cash and $1,000 in educational benefits.

Riffe, who predicted prompt approval by the Senate, said the measure presents "a very meaningful program (educational) program for Ohio's veterans ... it will enable them to receive educational opportunities that might not otherwise be available to them."

Riffe's concern over finances was backed up, meanwhile, by state fiscal officers who appeared before the Senate Finance Committee to discuss Ohio's financial picture.

Tax Commissioner Robert J. Kosydar predicted there will be a general fund balance at the end of the biennium July 1, 1975, of only about $4.9 million.

An alleged surplus of $70.3 million as of Dec. 31, he said, was not a surplus but represented a fluctuation in revenues and spending.

John Olsen, director of the Office of Budget and Management, told the committee that surpluses and deficits at the end of any monthly period do not reflect the true picture.

In response to questions from Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Midletown, Kosydar said "all we're doing is cautioning the committee: don't spend money not in the treasury."

In other action, Rep. Robert J. Boggs, D-97 Jefferson won House approval of a bill requiring the owners and operators of oil and gas wells to restore their drilling sites to prescribed state standards.

The House also passed a measure by Rep. Arthur R. Bowers, D-98 Steubenville, which takes out of the law an antiquated ban against the selling or giving away of intoxicating liquor with one-half mile of a township park. Bowers said the unenforced statute has been on the books since 1883. The bill went to the Senate on a vote of 68-23.

In the Senate, Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Gallion, won 29-1 approval of a measure that increases the fees that can be charged by weighers, samplers, and testers of milk along with operators of bulk tanks. Sen. Ronald Mottl, D-24 Parma, was the lone dissenter.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, offered a resolution that asks Ohio wholesalers and retailers off bottled gas and fuel oil to hold the line on prices for a year. Soaring prices of those products are close to making them "prohibitive," the senator warned.

Only brief debate preceded the 88-6 vote on the oil and gas bill and it involved the mechanics of the measure rather than whether it might have some effect on efforts for the recovery of oil and gas in Ohio.

Boggs explained that owners and operators of wells already have to post bond to assure completed wells will be plugged, and that the same bond will cover reclamation of well sites.

The bill simply assures, he said, that owners and operators will remove equipment and debris and perform other prescribed land surface restoration after drilling and plugging a well.

The Senate received two new bills and the House ten.

Among new House bills are proposals permitting a $1 state income tax check-off for a political party, requiring the election of the members of the Public Utilities Commission, eliminating a need for women to re-register to vote when they are married, and allowing the holder of a valid driver's license to take an examination for a motorcycle license without obtaining a learner's permit.

Sen. Douglas Applegate, D-30 Steubenville, introduced a bill that provides vocational education building and equipment funds for newly-qualified local school districts.

In another Senate bill, Sen. Clara E. Weisenborn, R-5 Dayton, called for an extension in the reporting date of the Ohio Education Review Committee until Dec. 15.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were down sharply today as profit-takers cashed in on recent gains and jittery investors decided to do some selling.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 7.38 to 863.62, while advances trailed declines on the New York Stock Exchange by about 7 to 4.

Ralph Acampora, analyst with Harris, Upham & Co., said the market was going through "a normal period of profit-taking" after the Dow's 50-point climb in the past two weeks.

The initial reluctance of other major banks to follow Morgan Guaranty's reduction in the prime rate and Arab resistance to Egypt's reported suggestion of a relaxation of the oil boycott also were making investors uneasy, brokers said.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell .29 to 96.16, while the Big Board index fell .29 to 51.54.

A-C Athletic Boosters Present New Field House Plans To Board

Final plans for the proposed field house were presented Monday night to the Board of Education of the Amanda-Clearcreek district. The field house plans and artist's conception of the completed structure were presented to the board by Allan Reid of the Athletic Boosters. The boosters are to pay for the building. A resolution was passed initiating these plans.

Lighting at the outside basketball courts at the Stoutsville and Amanda buildings was discussed by the board with the athletic boosters. Board president Enos Fausnaugh requested the high school principal, Richard Smith, work with the boosters on these projects. Elwood Kim and Maynard Miller, board members, will also serve with the boosters on the projects.

The board president appointed the following members to work in designated areas: building and grounds, Elwood Kim; athletics, Maynard Miller and Robert Foster; organizations, Elwood Kim and Merlin Wentworth; transportation, Enos Fausnaugh; cafeteria, Merlin Wentworth.

Appreciation was expressed for work done by retiring board members Jean Muck, Ronald Bates and Cameron Hardie.

A resolution was passed to increase board paid Educator and Executive Life Insurance from $5,000 to $8,000 per employee.

Superintendent William A. Smith has been named to serve on the planning committee for the 1974 Ohio School Boards Association Capital Conference. The first meeting of the conference will be Feb. 13. The board also authorized Smith to attend the Ohio Local Superintendents Association on Jan. 29-30. Elementary principals Stephen Gahn, Wayne Evans and Robert Christy were authorized to attend a meeting in Columbus the afternoon of Feb. 8, at the Ohio Association of Elementary School Principals.

The resignation was accepted from Roger Canupp, high school biology teacher, effective Jan. 25.

A letter of appreciation was read from Mr. and Mrs. Carl Strous for tutoring received by their son.

Resolutions were passed to purchase liability insurance for members of the board of education and to proceed with the issue of bonds and certifying them to the board of elections.

Another resolution was passed to submit to the Department of Taxation of Ohio, and the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the question whether an issue of bonds which will make the net indebtedness exceed six per cent but not exceed nine per cent of the total value of all property in the school district, shall be submitted to popular vote.

Three buses are to be purchased from Lancaster Implement and Thomas Bus Bodies.

Forms to be used for mechanical maintenance requests were adopted.

Another resignation, one from teachers aide Mary Finley, was accepted by the board. One employment was confirmed. Terry Cordle was employed in the capacity of science teacher in the Stoutsville building.

A final resolution was passed during the regular meeting requiring school be in session on Feb. 18, to make up the day dismissed in respect of the Athletic Director Kermit McCafferty's funeral on Jan. 14.

Regular meeting dates of the board were changed to the second Monday of each month to begin at 7 p.m. and to adjourn at 10 p.m.

Deputy Cites Man For DWI

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Warren Straley cited Donald Eugene Scott, 38, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, for driving while intoxicated when he was involved in a two-car accident 1:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Scott was travelling southwest on State Route 62 when he went off the right berm swerving back across the highway.

Crossing in front of a car driven by Valerie Riffle, 20, Mt. Sterling, the Scott auto threw stones striking the windshield of the Riffle auto.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were down sharply today as profit-takers cashed in on recent gains and jittery investors decided to do some selling.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 7.38 to 863.62, while advances trailed declines on the New York Stock Exchange by about 7 to 4.

Ralph Acampora, analyst with Harris, Upham & Co., said the market was going through "a normal period of profit-taking" after the Dow's 50-point climb in the past two weeks.

The initial reluctance of other major banks to follow Morgan Guaranty's reduction in the prime rate and Arab resistance to Egypt's reported suggestion of a relaxation of the oil boycott also were making investors uneasy, brokers said.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell .29 to 96.16, while the Big Board index fell .29 to 51.54.

Find Blacks More Equal In Some Areas

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Blacks are more equal to whites in Mansfield, Ohio than in Racine, Wis.; in Des Moines, Iowa than in Peoria, Ill. In Flint, Mich., than in Evansville, Ind.

These are some of the findings of Robert A. Elgie, a Bradley University researcher who evaluated the levels of equality between blacks and whites in 28 moderate-size metropolitan areas of the Midwest.

Elgie, an assistant professor of geography, thinks the results of his work could be of value to political leaders trying to gauge the racial progress of their communities.

Using 1970 census data, Elgie and four undergraduate assistants evaluated the equality level of each metropolitan area in four categories: education, occupations, income and residential integration. They then also used this data to rank the communities in terms of their overall equality level.

Their system was simple. They simply used census figures for blacks and whites in each of the categories and compared them. Cities where blacks compared most closely to whites were rated highest.

The results: —Blacks and whites tended to be more equal in Michigan and Ohio than in Illinois and Indiana.

"Many blacks I've talked to have a subjective feeling things are different in the eastern part of the Midwest than the western part," said Elgie, who is white. "And in Michigan and Ohio, communities do seem to come off better."

—There is a tremendous difference between communities in levels of equality. Communities with greatest equality included Springfield, Ohio; Lansing, Mich. and Lorain, Ohio. At the bottom of the scale were Fort Wayne, Ind. and Peoria, Ill.

Elgie said one important aspect of his study is that it measured the relative equality of blacks and whites in their own communities rather than against some absolute standard for the whole society.

"When we think we think in terms of our relative position in our society," said Elgie. "If we feel deprived we feel relatively deprived."

Thus blacks in a community with a low equality rating for education might actually have a higher level of education than blacks in a community with a high rating. The point is they are worse off in comparison with whites living in the same community, Elgie said.

The study also showed that equality levels in each of the areas studied varied greatly within individual communities.

For example, the Huntington, W. Va.-Ashland, Ohio area ranked those highest of all 28 metropolitan areas on the educational equality scale, but next to last in occupational equality.

Flint, Mich. ranked high on the occupational equality scale but was last in terms of residential integration.

The Champaign-Urbana Ill. area ranked top in the residential integration scale, but near the bottom of the educational equality index.

Elgie thinks this tends to disprove the popular theory of the 1960s that somehow education, residential integration, income and occupational opportunities are all related in solving the problems of black inequality.

Elgie's system is known as statistical overlap.

For example, using 1970 census data he could see the percentage of black families in the Peoria metropolitan area in each of 14 income categories. He could also see the percentage of white families in each of these categories.

He then totaled the overlap in each of the categories. This produced a figure representing the percentage of blacks and whites who had equal incomes.

In the case of the Peoria metropolitan area the figure was 67.9 per cent. And this figure became the Peoria area's rating in the income index.

A similar technique was used in the categories of education, occupations and residential integration.

The rankings of the 28 communities in each of these categories were then averaged. This produced an overall ranking for level of equality.

Elgie originally developed the research for presentation at a conference sponsored by the Peoria Human Relations Commission last November.

Now he is developing similar data on all major metropolitan areas in the U.S. He is also gathering information to provide reasons for the various levels of income equality in these

Revenue Bonds Purchased

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Five Cincinnati banks and 12 building and loan firms Tuesday purchased $10.8 million in state revenue bonds to finance a $16 million riverfront sports arena.

The 16,000-seat Cincinnati Coliseum is scheduled for completion in late 1975.

The remainder of the financing will be provided through purchase of private loges by local industries and groups.

From the reaction during his presentation, Elgie said he felt that Peoria area residents would prefer not to know they were so far behind in terms of black-white equality.

Find Blacks More Equal In Some Areas

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Blacks are more equal to whites in Mansfield, Ohio than in Racine, Wis.; in Des Moines, Iowa than in Peoria, Ill. In Flint, Mich., than in Evansville, Ind.

These are some of the findings of Robert A. Elgie, a Bradley University researcher who evaluated the levels of equality between blacks and whites in 28 moderate-size metropolitan areas of the Midwest.

Elgie, an assistant professor of geography, thinks the results of his work could be of value to political leaders trying to gauge the racial progress of their communities.

Using 1970 census data, Elgie and four undergraduate assistants evaluated the equality level of each metropolitan area in four categories: education, occupations, income and residential integration. They then also used this data to rank the communities in terms of their overall equality level.

Their system was simple. They simply used census figures for blacks and whites in each of the categories and compared them. Cities where blacks compared most closely to whites were rated highest.

The results:

—Blacks and whites tended to be more equal in Michigan and Ohio than in Illinois and Indiana.

“Many blacks I’ve talked to have a subjective feeling things are different in the eastern part of the Midwest than the western part,” said Elgie, who is white. “And in Michigan and Ohio, communities do seem to come off better.”

—There is a tremendous difference between communities in levels of equality. Communities with greatest equality included Springfield, Ohio; Lansing, Mich. and Lorain, Ohio. At the bottom of the scale were Fort Wayne, Ind. and Peoria, Ill.

Elgie said one important aspect of his study is that it measured the relative equality of blacks and whites in their own communities rather than against some absolute standard for the whole society.

“When we think we think in terms of our relative position in our society,” said Elgie. “If we feel deprived we feel relatively deprived.”

Thus blacks in a community with a low equality rating for education might actually have a higher level of education than blacks in a community with a high rating. The point is they are worse off in comparison with whites living in the same community, Elgie said.

The study also showed that equality levels in each of the areas studied varied greatly within individual communities.

For example, the Huntington, W. Va.-Ashland, Ohio area ranked those highest of all 28 metropolitan areas on the educational equality scale, but next to last in occupational equality.

Flint, Mich. ranked high on the occupational equality scale but was last in terms of residential integration.

The Champaign-Urbana Ill. area ranked top in the residential integration scale, but near the bottom of the educational equality index.

Elgie thinks this tends to disprove the popular theory of the 1960s that somehow education, residential integration, income and occupational opportunities are all related in solving the problems of black inequality.

Elgie’s system is known as statistical overlap.

For example, using 1970 census data he could see the percentage of black families in the Peoria metropolitan area in each of 14 income categories. He could also see the percentage of white families in each of these categories.

He then totaled the overlap in each of the categories. This produced a figure representing the percentage of blacks and whites who had equal incomes.

In the case of the Peoria metropolitan area the figure was 67.9 per cent. And this figure became the Peoria area’s rating in the income index.

A similar technique was used in the categories of education, occupations and residential integration.

The rankings of the 28 communities in each of these categories were then averaged. This produced an overall ranking for level of equality.

Elgie originally developed the research for presentation at a conference sponsored by the Peoria Human Relations Commission last November.

Now he is developing similar data on all major metropolitan areas in the U.S. He is also gathering information to provide reasons for the various levels of income equality in these

From the reaction during his presentation, Elgie said he felt that Peoria area residents would prefer not to know they were so far behind in terms of black-white equality.

“But maybe this is grounds for optimism,” he said. “Twenty years ago there were communities that actually took pride in keeping blacks down.”

“Now I can’t think of a community that would like to have that revealed any longer.”

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Civil Service Study Commission will conduct a series of public hearings beginning Feb. 21 aimed at updating the state’s civil service system.

The 14-member commission will hear testimony through November on employe salaries, the need for new job classifications and the impact of civil service laws on different local and state governments.

Two subcommittees also will take testimony.

MIA Search Stymied

Families of American servicemen missing in Vietnam are going to have to bear their uncertainties a while longer. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have made it impossible to search suspected sites where bodies might be found. Recovery operations have accounted for only a small number of the men—all dead—and have virtually come to a halt.

Last Dec. 18, the refusal of the communists to cooperate in carrying out a provision of the year-old Paris agreements to cooperate in body recovery efforts turned hostile. A recovery team flying a clearly-marked helicopter was ambushed by the Viet Cong. An unarmed American officer and a Vietnamese soldier were killed.

Even that cowardly act brought no response from the communists. They have consistently refused to talk about it at military liaison meetings in Saigon. No announcements have been made by American officials on the scene about future searches, but it is obvious the attitude of the invaders has made it impossible to try to follow the last tracks of the 1,233 men still on the missing list.

The nature of the enemy is such that one of the most humane provisions of the "peace" agreement is beyond their interest to comply.

"Did I say salt? Heh, heh... I meant BAKING SODA!"

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—The Federal Communications Commission, which often speaks as if it owns the air, is juggling its hottest potato. Within a few weeks it must decide whether pay-TV is entitled to leap with both feet into that prestigious and profit-making sea of free-TV.

It's a tough decision that could affect all 65,000,000 TV homes in the U.S. The pressure groups have set up their separate shops (and mimeograph machines) on the steps of the FCC.

The National Association of Broadcasters, (NAB), representing free-TV, has made the point that if pay-TV is fully unleashed it will turn free TV into even more of a lone prairie. It fears that if pay-TV gains equal rights in the market it will begin to buy up many of the better attractions that viewers now get for free. One NAB official has said that perhaps 90 per cent of the most popular programs and special events could become available only to 7,500,000 homes now equipped with cable transmission, the conduit through which those programs would flow.

A case in point was the first Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali fight. Pay-TV easily outbid the traditional sponsors of such fights, and to see it on the screen, boxing fans were charged as much as $50 a head by theater owners. There is a dread within NAB that any no-holds-barred bidding for an attraction of national interest would put pay-TV in a commanding position. Sponsors would fall away in droves, neighborhood quarrels would blaze, and people deprived of watching the Super Bowl, Archie Bunker, denouncing all ethnic groups, and Marshal Dillon, killing people, might revolt.

The pay-TV people want the FCC wraps taken off them, and they have strong arguments. They say the public, or at least the more affluent portion of it, has as much right to buy a particular television event as it has to buy a bottle of whiskey or a new tire. It can guarantee a Hollywood film company, or a Broadway producer, all the money invested in a first-night showing. Moreover, pay-TV argues, it can bring many more programs of special interest to viewers over as many as 100 channels: local election debates, a speech by a controversial national figure, an off-Broadway play, a foreign movie, a ballet or concert from Carnegie Hall, even a camera "pan" across the shelves of a local market or department store for sedentary shoppers. NAB: "It's true that the country needs all the diversity of communications it can get. But cost is a necessary factor, especially when one considers that families with incomes under $7,000 watch TV most. They are least able to afford cable TV installation and service costs, much less another $30 or more a month to see programs they can now see for free."

Pay-TV: "The only way cable TV can become profitable and therefore bring viewers all the extra channels and diversified programming is to offer top movies and sports and other special events, and charge viewers to see them."

Well, it's something the radio people will never have to worry about.

President Nixon's $300,000,000,000 (billion) budget boggles the mind beyond repair. Only about three-quarters of a million days separate us from the birth of Christ. My vest-pocket calculator is suffering an energy shortage, but perhaps yours can figure out how much an individual would have had to spend each day for 1974 years to get rid of the

Henry Kissinger, the most respected man in government, has worked a new miracle in the Holy Land—an area that has the highest incidence of them. He has cut through a cordon of hate that had no parallel among the civilized nations of the earth. It was summed up once by a Jordanian friend who said, "The only thing that holds the Arab world together is our common hatred of Israel."

It was thicker than any wall in that part of the world, including the Wailing Wall. Now... hope, thanks to the most remarkable diplomat of the century.

How come my lousy $22.50 tape recorder never fails?

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The crazy, mixed up state of economic affairs today is probably best illustrated by those advertisements that say in effect, "Please don't buy our product."

If such a complete reversal of rules were to be forced upon golf, for example, you might see Jack Nicklaus missing a one-foot putt and Arnold Palmer doing his level best to exceed 100.

Utilities that just a few years ago might have told the owner of a new skyscraper to leave his lights on all night for advertising purposes, now tell him to lower the lights during the day.

Gasoline stations that less than two years ago were engaged in price wars and which offered trading stamps and other premiums now give you only half a tank if you're lucky to be there at the right time.

Auto makers who had almost convinced Americans they were deprived if they still owned only one car now advise them, in the words of Volkswagen, "Walk. Shoe leather saves gas."

And the distributors of "throwaway" items, such as metal coat hangers, now ask if you would please return them.

The stock market is reacting to these new game rules by regressing into a catatonic stupor. Some of those popular stock market indexes, such as the Dow Jones industrial average, are back where they were eight years ago.

Investors, who clearly wouldn't be in the market if they weren't seeking profits, have even developed a tendency to beware of some of the big profitable corporations, such as the oil companies.

Those companies are making money now, the trepid investor reasons, and that means the government is going to jump on them. Profit is bad, it seems, especially if you make your profits in oil.

Some of the big oil producers never were able to report higher profits than they're turning in now. And the price of their product is rising faster than their expenses. Obviously a good investment? No. Beware.

With food prices being what they are and what they are about to be, it would seem logical that the big food chains that sell the food would be skimming off a bigger portion for themselves.

But, as you would expect, they aren't. When food prices were lower, the profits of most chains were higher, as a percentage of sales, than they are now.

Crazy.

Kidney Transplant Said Successful At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Hospital officials termed the condition of a Northern Kentucky infant satisfactory early today after a kidney transplant Wednesday from a young Californian killed in a traffic accident Tuesday.

The kidney was sent by air for the operation.

Officials at Children's Hospital declined to name the donor or benefactor.

The transplant was arranged through a national "Cross Match Bank," with assistance from the University of California at Los Angeles department of surgery. It houses one of the largest tissue matching banks in the United States.

Coal Production Shows Increase

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The nation's coal production in the early days of this year has moved above last year's levels.

Total production of bituminous coal and lignite in the week ended Jan. 12 is estimated by the U.S. Bureau of Mines as 10,840,000 tons, an increase of 10.7 per cent over the preceding week. Production in the corresponding week of 1973 was 10,320,000 tons.

Total production for this year from Jan. 1 through Jan. 12 totaled 20,630,000 tons, up 6 per cent from the comparable period of 1973.

Speaking Of Your Health

Can excess coffee drinking cause heart disease?
MT. T. D. O., Pa.

Dear Mr. O.:

A considerable amount of interest and confusion exists about this important matter. Widespread publicity was given this when a study was reported in the leading British Medical Journal, LANCET. In it, coffee was linked to some cases of coronary heart disease.

Then came a release from the Kaiser-Permanente Center in California which just as positively stated, "There is no independent association between coffee drinking and a subsequent first myocardial infarction (heart attack)."

This research team found that those who drank more than six cups of coffee a day were much more likely to smoke a great many cigarettes a day. It was believed by this group that the cigarettes rather than the coffee played a role in the cause of coronary heart problems. In this study coffee was absolved.

But the total picture is by no means clear. In the New England Journal of Medicine, a most prestigious magazine, Dr. Hershel Jick and a large group of co-workers demonstrated "a positive association between coffee consumption and acute myocardial infarction in an analysis of 12,759 hospitalized patients.

"As compared with those who drink no coffee, the risks of infarction (heart attack) among those drinking one to six or more cups of coffee a day are estimated to be increased by 60 per cent or more."

An incidental finding showed there was "no evidence of a positive association between tea drinking and acute myocardial infarction."

Dr. Jick's study was a highly comprehensive one, done at the Boston University Medical Center, and probably is the most elaborate effort of its kind.

Despite the confusion that these two points of view present, it is apparent that caffeine used in excess must be considered detrimental to health.

Caffeine is recognized as a chemical stimulant. Large amounts can produce restlessness, insomnia, palpitations of the heart, anxiety, and can increase the hydrochloric acid secretions in the stomach.

Moderation is therefore advisable until there is complete and unequivocal knowledge about the exact relationship between coffee and heart attacks.

Kissinger Expects Speedy End To Arab Oil Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has predicted that the Arab oil embargo will be lifted before the projected 40-day disengagement of Israeli and Egyptian forces is completed.

"We have had every reason to believe that success in the negotiations would mark a major step toward ending the oil embargo. We would therefore think that failure to end the embargo in a reasonable time would be highly inappropriate," Kissinger said Tuesday at his first news conference since returning from the Middle East.

Asked whether he believed the embargo would be lifted after the 40-day disengagement period, Kissinger said, "I think in more ambitious terms."

Brown Backs Equal Rights Amendment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Ohio Senate were urged by Atty. Gen. William Brown Tuesday to vote for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Brown, in a letter to the lawmakers, said ratification would be a step toward eliminating the barriers to equal rights for both women and men.

The Senate Financial Institutions, Insurance and Elections Committee approved the amendment Tuesday, sending the House-passed measure on its way toward a floor vote.

Gov. John Gilligan praised the committee action and said he was confident the full Senate will "see the ERA as providing women that what should be their birthright as Americans—equal opportunity to lead lives and careers on an equal footing with men."

A favorable vote by the Senate would make Ohio the 33rd state to ratify, with 38 needed.

Meanwhile, opposition to the ERA came Monday from Naomi McDaniel of New Carlisle, national president of Women of Industry, Inc.

Mrs. McDaniel said in a statement that female factory workers need the protection of laws limiting the loads women must lift.

"Most of the uninformed, but smooth-talking college women supporting ERA have never even seen a factory production line," said Mrs. McDaniel, who works in a General Motors plant in Dayton.

Then he was asked whether he thinks it will be ended sooner and Kissinger replied, "Yes."

Kissinger stressed that the United States did not commit itself to new obligations in the Mideast talks.

"Both sides found it easier to accept a U.S. proposal as to the limitation of their forces than to accept limitations which seemed to be demanded by the other side," Kissinger said.

This "does not constitute a U.S. guarantee, it was a device by which the United States made it possible to convey to the other their acceptance of certain limitations on the armaments," the secretary of state said.

However, Kissinger acknowledged that the United States will be involved in the Middle East if the agreement breaks down.

While Kissinger explained in his usual scholarly fashion the U.S. role in the Middle East, he was obviously irritated when asked what he knew about the activities of the plumbers, the White House intelligence group.

Kissinger denied that he misled the Senate Foreign Relations Committee when he testified about the plumbers last fall.

But he said he was aware that David R. Young Jr., who worked for him at the White House before he was transferred to the plumbers, investigated the leak at the National Security Council, which Kissinger still heads.

Franklin County GOP Endorses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Franklin County Republican Convention held few surprises as it endorsed the statewide GOP consensus ticket in rapid succession Tuesday night.

The convention's 1,399 voting delegates endorsed former Gov. James A. Rhodes for governor and incumbent John Brown for lieutenant governor.

Other endorsements went to Franklin County Prosecutor George Smith for attorney general and Montgomery County Commissioner Tom Cloud for state auditor.

The first telephone was installed in the White House by President Rutherford B. Hayes, who took office in 1877, the World Book Encyclopedia says. The installation was ordered after the President saw Alexander Graham Bell demonstrate his invention. President Hayes also ordered a telegraph installed.

MIA Search Stymied

Families of American servicemen missing in Vietnam are going to have to bear their uncertainties a while longer. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have made it impossible to search suspected sites where bodies might be found. Recovery operations have accounted for only a small number of the men—all dead—and have virtually come to a halt.

Last Dec. 18, the refusal of the communists to cooperate in carrying out a provision of the year-old Paris agreements to cooperate in body recovery efforts turned hostile. A recovery team flying a clearly-marked helicopter was ambushed by the Viet Cong. An unarmed American officer and a Vietnamese soldier were killed.

Even that cowardly act brought no response from the communists. They have consistently refused to talk about it at military liaison meetings in Saigon. No announcements have been made by American officials on the scene about future searches, but it is obvious the attitude of the invaders has made it impossible to try to follow the last tracks of the 1,233 men still on the missing list.

The nature of the enemy is such that one of the most humane provisions of the "peace" agreement is beyond their interest to comply.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The crazy, mixed up state of economic affairs today is probably best illustrated by those advertisements that say in effect, "Please don't buy our product."

If such a complete reversal of rules were to be forced upon golf, for example, you might see Jack Nicklaus missing a one-foot putt and Arnold Palmer doing his level best to exceed 100.

Utilities that just a few years ago might have told the owner of a new skyscraper to leave his lights on all night for advertising purposes, now tell him to lower the lights during the day.

Gasoline stations that less than two years ago were engaged in price wars and which offered trading stamps and other premiums now give you only half a tank if you're lucky to be there at the right time.

Auto makers who had almost convinced Americans they were deprived if they still owned only one car now advise them, in the words of Volkswagen, "Walk. Shoe leather saves gas."

And the distributors of "throwaway" items, such as metal coat hangers, now ask if you would please return them.

The stock market is reacting to these new game rules by regressing into a catatonic stupor. Some of those popular stock market indexes, such as the Dow Jones industrial average, are back where they were eight years ago.

Investors, who clearly wouldn't be in the market if they weren't seeking profits, have even developed a tendency to beware of some of the big profitable corporations, such as the oil companies.

Those companies are making money now, the trepid investor reasons, and that means the government is going to jump on them. Profit is bad, it seems, especially if you make your profits in oil.

Some of the big oil producers never were able to report higher profits than they're turning in now. And the price of their product is rising faster than their expenses. Obviously a good investment? No. Beware.

With food prices being what they are and what they are about to be, it would seem logical that the big food chains that sell the food would be skimming off a bigger portion for themselves.

But, as you would expect, they aren't. When food prices were lower, the profits of most chains were higher, as a percentage of sales, than they are now.

Crazy.

Kidney Transplant Said Successful At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Hospital officials termed the condition of a Northern Kentucky infant satisfactory early today after a kidney transplant Wednesday from a young Californian killed in a traffic accident Tuesday.

The kidney was sent by air for the operation.

Officials at Children's Hospital declined to name the donor or beneficiary.

The transplant was arranged through a national "Cross Match Bank," with assistance from the University of California at Los Angeles department of surgery. It houses one of the largest tissue matching banks in the United States.

MR. AND MRS. FREDERICK JAMES BROWN

Marriage Vows Exchanged In Wurtland, Ky. Church

A double ring ceremony performed Nov. 10th in the First Church of the Nazarene, Wurtland, Ky., united in marriage Miss Deborah Sue Brown and Mr. Frederick James Brown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brown, 704 Heaberlin Road, Wurtland, Ky., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Brown, Stoutsville, Ohio.

The Rev. O. P. Smith, great-uncle of the bride, read the wedding vows at 6 p.m. before an altar decorated with palms and a bridal arch entwined with bronze and gold mums, oak leaves and wheat.

Mrs. Garriett Bailey, organist and Mr. Paul A. Toney, soloist, presented a program of nuptial selections preceding the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected for her wedding a formal gown of bridal satin and chantly lace fashioned with a Sabrina neckline enhanced with scalloped lace and bishop sleeves. The bouffant skirt extended into a chapel train featuring scalloped lace tiers. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a satin floral headdress and she carried a nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses, white mums and baby's breath. Her only jewelry was a mother of pearl and diamond necklace and earrings, gifts of her parents.

County School History Program Topic For DAR

Mrs. Harold Bowers, chairman of the bi-centennial committee for the Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, presented the program on "History Of Pickaway County Schools From 1796 to 1974" during a recent meeting of the DAR.

Mrs. Bowers said that soon after the pioneers were settled they began to organize and make plans for schools. Schools were built of logs as were most of their homes. Floors were either dirt or puncheon. A large fireplace at one end of the building was depended upon to heat the room. All furniture was simple and crude. There were no seats or desks for the pupils. Benches were made by splitting a log in half and legs were put into the log or bench to support it. There were no blackboards and the walls were either covered with boards or left bare.

The writer felt that the history of Pickaway County schools could be divided into four eras. First era, 1796-1825, was the period of log schoolhouses. Parents of children that attended the school had to pay the teacher a stipulated amount for each child that attended school. This was not public school but a private school. The teaching of "The Three R's" and spelling were insisted upon. This was also called the pioneer era.

Second era, 1825-1914, marked a time of change. This was the time when the idea began to take hold that schools should be for everyone. This period saw the establishment of public schools. Laws were enacted by the Legislature for the funding of schools by taxing property. Boards of education were looking for better teachers. Teacher examinations were given to assure the boards that the applicant knew the subject matter to be taught. These were the years that saw thousands of little red brick schoolhouses being built all over Ohio.

Third era, 1914-1950, was the period of new school laws made by the State Legislature that brought big changes in education. Compulsory attendance laws were in effect. This new law made teacher training mandatory. This was the era of centralization of township schools and the first transportation of pupils to school. The curriculum of the schools was widened and high school students could choose the subjects they wished to study. The office of County Superintendent was established in 1914. The last one of the little red brick schools was closed in the 1920s.

The fourth era, 1950-1974, was the time of consolidation or merging of townships into districts. Pickaway County has three districts. Better schools with better teachers make better graduates and better citizens. Mrs. Bowers had collected pictures of several one room schools while still in use. Some pictures of the teachers and the pupils were interesting. Also on display was a picture of one of the first school buses to be used in the county. The first school bus was indeed a horse drawn vehicle. This school bus picture created a bit of nostalgia for many of those present. A picture of a one room school in Walnut Twp. with the teacher, Miss Florence Brown and in the front row stood a little first grader whose name was Harold J. Bowers. It could be added in interest of history, that Pickaway County had the first centralized school in Ohio.

Mrs. Joseph Peters, regent opened the chapter in ritualistic form, assisted by the chaplain, Mrs. R. R. Bales, when the Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution held the regular meeting in January in the Pickaway County Historical meeting room. Mrs. Daniel Eitel led the chapter in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America.

Miss Helen Mettler read the President General's Message. National defense was given by Mrs. Judd Dresbach. The energy crisis was ably discussed by Mrs. Dresbach.

Delegates and alternates were elected by the chapter for the State Conference and the Continental Congress. For the State Conference Delegates are: Mrs. Joseph Peters, Mrs. Henry Bartholomew, Mrs. Charles Beckman and Mrs. J. L. Frazier.

Alternates are: Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Emerson Spicer, Mrs. Curtis Cromley, Miss Kathryn Decker and Miss Frances Decker. For Continental Congress: Mrs. Joseph Peters and Mrs. Charles Beckman, with alternates, Mrs. Judd Dresbach, Mrs. Emerson Spicer and Mrs. Henry Bartholomew.

Miss Marie Hamilton, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported that the committee had made a profit on projects and were presenting the same to the chapter treasurer.

Mrs. Peters reported that the chapter is to make favors for pages at the conference.

A motion by Mrs. Judd Dresbach that the chapter should support the State Past Regent, Mrs. Wallace B. Heiser as a candidate for President General was seconded by Mrs. Martin Cromley.

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Paul Cromley reported a letter of appreciation from Veterans Hospital in Chillicothe for the gift certificates sent by the chapter was received.

A letter from Mrs. Ralph Acton, chairman of the State Lineage Research program in memory of the late Mrs. Dwight Steele, credited Evelyn with outstanding interest in the DAR Lineage Research work.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Henry Bartholomew, Mrs. Edward King, Miss Martha Kay Thomas, Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, Mrs. William Richards, Mrs. Emmitt Ebenhack, Mrs. Elliot Miller, Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Bryan Custer, Mrs. Lee Lueellen, Mrs. Russell McDill, Mrs. Bruce Stevenson, Mrs. J. Beryl Stevenson and Mrs. Earl Lane.

Guild 41 To Meet

Mrs. Ralph Hannahs, 115 Parkview Ave., will host the 7:30 p.m. Monday meeting of Berger Hospital Guild 41 in her home. Mrs. James Shaw is co-hostess for the evening.

Miss Helen Spires, Roy Dale Query Plan May Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Lester O. Spires, Carvel Manor, Ashville are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Helen Elaine, to Roy Dale Query, Son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Query, Indianapolis, Ind.

Miss Spires is a graduate of Teays Valley High School and Nationwide College of Commerce. She is employed as a stenographer-clerk by the Columbus Police Department.

Her fiance graduated from John Herron Institute and Columbus College of Art and Design. He is a contract interior designer at Wasserstrom Company of Columbus.

The couple will be united in a contemporary ceremony May 4th by the Rev. Robert F. Sinks at Broad Street United Methodist Church in Columbus.

Demos Eye Opponent For Brown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state Democratic executive and screening committees meet Saturday to endorse a candidate for secretary of state.

The party committees endorsed primary candidates for all state offices last month, but failed to take action on the secretary of state post.

Henry W. Eckhart, former chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, said he may drop out of the lieutenant governor's race and make himself available to fill the vacant party slot.

Eckhart, a Columbus attorney, said, "I appeared before the committees as a lieutenant governor candidate and didn't get the endorsement."

"Now the question is whether I should stay in the lieutenant governor's race and run in a field of nine or switch to the secretary of state race."

He added, "The only way I will switch over is if I will be the endorsed candidate and the party goes all out to win the race."

John Kennedy of Cleveland and Beverly Bingle, a former aide to Gov. John Gilligan, appeared before the screening committee last month for the party's endorsement as secretary of state. The committee made no recommendation for the office.

Kennedy opposed Republican Secretary of State Ted W. Brown in the 1970 general election and lost. Brown said he will run for re-election this year.

Enrollment Up At Ohio Ag Colleges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The energy crisis and related shortages in food, fiber, timber and paper has resulted in increased enrollments at Ohio colleges of agriculture and natural resources, says the Ohio State University College of Agriculture.

The college said despite a steady decline in the number of American farms, enrollments in agriculture and natural resources should climb by 48 per cent by 1980 based on current projections.

MR. AND MRS. FREDERICK JAMES BROWN

Marriage Vows Exchanged In Wurtland, Ky. Church

A double ring ceremony performed Nov. 10th in the First Church of the Nazarene, Wurtland, Ky., united in marriage Miss Deborah Sue Brown and Mr. Frederick James Brown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brown, 704 Heaberlin Road, Wurtland, Ky., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Stoutsville, Ohio.

The Rev. O. P. Smith, great-uncle of the bride, read the wedding vows at 6 p.m. before an altar decorated with palms and a bridal arch entwined with bronze and gold mums, oak leaves and wheat.

Mrs. Garriett Bailey, organist and Mr. Paul A. Toney, soloist, presented a program of nuptial selections preceding the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected for her wedding a formal gown of bridal satin and chantilly lace fashioned with a Sabrina neckline enhanced with scalloped lace and bishop sleeves. The bouffant skirt extended into a chapel train featuring scalloped lace tiers. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a satin floral headress and she carried a nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses, white mums and baby's breath. Her only jewelry was a mother of pearl and diamond necklace and earrings, gifts of her parents.

September Wedding Planned By Couple

SUE ANN ELLIOTT

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Elliott Jr., Route 1, Circleville are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Sue Ann, to Edward Bialy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bialy, Route 5, Circleville.

Miss Elliott is a 1973 graduate of Logan Elm High School. She is self employed as a baton twirling instructor and director.

Mr. Bialy, a 1973 graduate of Logan Elm High School is currently serving in the United States Navy. He was formerly employed as a dental technician and now attends night school preparing for an associate degree in accounting and business administration.

The couple plans a double ring ceremony on Sept. 1st in St. Joseph's Catholic Church of Circleville.

Circleville BPW Schedule Speaker

Lynn Roberts will be guest speaker for the 7 p.m. Thursday meeting of Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club at Pickaway Arms.

If you haven't a wire cooling rack that's big enough to hold a large rectangular cake you have baked, you can make do with a refrigerator shelf.

Lions Auxiliary Views Slides At Dinner Meeting

Circleville Lions Auxiliary met Monday evening for dinner at the Wardell Party Home with 22 members and one guest, Bennie Burns, present.

Ironing board covers were distributed to members to sell as a money making project. It was announced that $400 was donated by the auxiliary to the Lions Club to purchase eye-glasses for the needy and $50 for the Senior Citizens program of Franciscan Community Meals.

A valentine party was planned to entertain husbands on Feb. 17th at Pickaway Arms. The cocktail hour will begin at 5:30 and dinner served at 6 p.m.

For the program, Mrs. Burns showed slides and talked about her trip to Europe with the Bob Braun tour.

Mrs. Gary Sims won the raffle prize. Hostesses were Mrs. Forrest Thomerson and Mrs. Doyle Spangler.

New Year Plans Made By Circle

Circle 4, Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, met recently in the Service Center.

Opening prayer was by Marie Goodman. Myrna Siniff, leader, conducted the business session. She reported on the executive committee meeting and plans for the new year were reviewed and suggestions received for ways to meet financial obligations.

Call to prayer and self-denial will be observed in the morning worship service on Feb. 24th with Dorothy Conley as chairman. Hazel Merz closed the business meeting with prayer. Cards were signed for Bessie Pierce and Pat Reed.

For devotions Lida Ross read the poem "A New Year Brings A New Beginning" and Robert Louis Stevenson's "Prayer For The New Year." Mrs. Eugene Flowers said a prayer and for the program Opal Leist used the topic "Problems Of The Aging."

Refreshments were served to 12 members by Myrna Siniff and Mary White.

The next meeting will be Feb. 14th with Mrs. White, leader and Mrs. Reed and Maggie Mavis serving refreshments.

Saturday Wedding Plans Completed

Plans are completed for the open church wedding of Miss Janelle Roese Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Thompson, Route, 2 and Christopher Lee Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo E. Morgan, E. Franklin St.

The ceremony will take place 6:30 p.m. Saturday at Trinity Lutheran Church, E. Mound St., Circleville.

County School History Program Topic For DAR

Mrs. Harold Bowers, chairman of the bi-centennial committee for the Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, presented the program on "History Of Pickaway County Schools From 1796 to 1974" during a recent meeting of the DAR.

Mrs. Bowers said that soon after the pioneers were settled they began to organize and make plans for schools. Schools were built of logs as were most of their homes. Floors were either dirt or puncheon. A large fireplace at one end of the building was depended upon to heat the room. All furniture was simple and crude. There were no seats or desks for the pupils. Benches were made by splitting a log in half and legs were put into the log or bench to support it. There were no blackboards and the walls were either covered with boards or left bare.

The writer felt that the history of Pickaway County schools could be divided into four eras. First era, 1796-1825, was the period of log schoolhouses. Parents of children that attended the school had to pay the teacher a stipulated amount for each child that attended school. This was not public school but a private school. The teaching of "The Three R's" and spelling were insisted upon. This was also called the pioneer era.

Second era, 1825-1914, marked a time of change. This was the time when the idea began to take hold that schools should be for everyone. This period saw the establishment of public schools. Laws were enacted by the Legislature for the funding of schools by taxing property. Boards of education were looking for better teachers. Teacher examinations were given to assure the boards that the applicant knew the subject matter to be taught. These were the years that saw thousands of little red brick schoolhouses being built all over Ohio.

Third era, 1914-1950, was the period of new school laws made by the State Legislature that brought big changes in education. Compulsory attendance laws were in effect. This new law made teacher training mandatory. This was the era of centralization of township schools and the first transportation of pupils to school. The curriculum of the schools was widened and high school students could choose the subjects they wished to study. The office of County Superintendent was established in 1914. The last one of the little red brick schools was closed in the 1920s.

The fourth era, 1950-1974, was the time of consolidation or merging of townships into districts. Pickaway County has three districts. Better schools with better teachers make better graduates and better citizens. Mrs. Bowers had collected pictures of several one room schools while still in use. Some pictures of the teachers and the pupils were interesting. Also on display was a picture of one of the first school buses to be used in the county. The first school bus was indeed a horse drawn vehicle. This school bus picture created a bit of nostalgia for many of those present. A picture of a one room school in Walnut Twp. with the teacher, Miss Florence Brown and in the front row stood a little first grader whose name was Harold J. Bowers. It could be added in interest of history, that Pickaway County had the first centralized school in Ohio.

Mrs. Joseph Peters, regent opened the chapter in ritualistic form, assisted by the chaplain, Mrs. R. R. Bales, when the Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution held the regular meeting in January in the Pickaway County Historical meeting room. Mrs. Daniel Eitel led the chapter in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America.

Miss Helen Mettler read the President General's Message. National defense was given by Mrs. Judd Dresbach. The energy crisis was ably discussed by Mrs. Dresbach.

Delegates and alternates were elected by the chapter for the State Conference and the Continental Congress. For the State Conference Delegates are: Mrs. Joseph Peters, Mrs. Henry Bartholomew, Mrs. Charles Beckman and Mrs. J. L. Frazier.

Alternates are: Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Emerson Spicer, Mrs. Curtis Cromley, Miss Kathryn Decker and Miss Frances Decker. For Continental Congress: Mrs. Joseph Peters and Mrs. Charles Beckman, with alternates, Mrs. Judd Dresbach, Mrs. Emerson Spicer and Mrs. Henry Bartholomew.

Miss Marie Hamilton, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported that the committee had made a profit on projects and were presenting the same to the chapter treasurer.

Mrs. Peters reported that the chapter is to make favors for pages at the conference.

A motion by Mrs. Judd Dresbach that the chapter should support the State Past Regent, Mrs. Wallace B. Heiser as a candidate for President General was seconded by Mrs. Martin Cromley.

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Paul Cromley reported a letter of appreciation from Veterans Hospital in Chillicothe for the gift certificates sent by the chapter was received.

A letter from Mrs. Ralph Acton, chairman of the State Lineage Research program in memory of the late Mrs. Dwight Steele, credited Evelyn with outstanding interest in the DAR Lineage Research work.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Henry Bartholomew, Mrs. Edward King, Miss Martha Kay Thomas, Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, Mrs. William Richards, Mrs. Emmitt Ebenhack, Mrs. Elliot Miller, Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Bryan Custer, Mrs. Lee Lueellen, Mrs. Russell McDill, Mrs. Bruce Stevenson, Mrs. J. Beryl Stevenson and Mrs. Earl Lane.

Guild 41 To Meet

Mrs. Ralph Hannahs, 115 Parkview Ave., will host the 7:30 p.m. Monday meeting of Berger Hospital Guild 41 in her home. Mrs. James Shaw is co-hostess for the evening.

Miss Helen Spires, Roy Dale Query Plan May Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Lester O. Spires, Carvel Manor, Ashville are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Helen Elaine, to Roy Dale Query, Son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Query, Indianapolis, Ind.

Miss Spires is a graduate of Teays Valley High School and Nationwide College of Commerce. She is employed as a stenographer-clerk by the Columbus Police Department.

Her fiance graduated from John Herron Institute and Columbus College of Art and Design. He is a contract interior designer at Wasserstrom Company of Columbus.

The couple will be united in a contemporary ceremony May 4th by the Rev. Robert F. Sinks at Broad Street United Methodist Church in Columbus.

Demos Eye Opponent For Brown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state Democratic executive and screening committees meet Saturday to endorse a candidate for secretary of state.

The party committees endorsed primary candidates for all state offices last month, but failed to take action on the secretary of state post.

Henry W. Eckhart, former chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, said he may drop out of the lieutenant governor's race and make himself available to fill the vacant party slot.

Eckhart, a Columbus attorney, said, "I appeared before the committees as a lieutenant governor candidate and didn't get the endorsement."

"Now the question is whether I should stay in the lieutenant governor's race and run in a field of nine or switch to the secretary of state race."

He added, "The only way I will switch over is if I will be the endorsed candidate and the party goes all out to win the race."

John Kennedy of Cleveland and Beverly Bingle, a former aide to Gov. John Gilligan, appeared before the screening committee last month for the party's endorsement as secretary of state. The committee made no recommendation for the office.

Kennedy opposed Republican Secretary of State Ted W. Brown in the 1970 general election and lost. Brown said he will run for re-election this year.

Enrollment Up At Ohio Ag Colleges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The energy crisis and related shortages in food, fiber, timber and paper has resulted in increased enrollments at Ohio colleges of agriculture and natural resources, says the Ohio State University College of Agriculture.

The college said despite a steady decline in the number of American farms, enrollments in agriculture and natural resources should climb by 48 per cent by 1980 based on current projections.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE, STATE OF OHIO:

SECTION 1: That the Director of Public Service of the City of Circleville, Ohio, be, and hereby is, authorized to advertise, according to law, for sealed bids for the destruction and removal of debris of the buildings located at 302 Lancaster Pike, owned by the City of Circleville, Ohio, all in accordance with the specifications on file in the Office of the Director of Public Service, of the City of Circleville, Ohio.

SECTION 2: That the Director of Public Service of the City of Circleville, Ohio, be and hereby is, with the approval of the Mayor, authorized to and directed to enter into a contract on behalf of said City, with the successful bidder, therefor, for the destruction of said buildings and removal of debris upon the conditions specified by the plans on file in the Office of the Director of Public Service of this City.

SECTION 3: This ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health and safety of the residents of the City of Circleville, Ohio, and for the express purpose of providing immediate construction of a street right-of-way and to enable the City of Circleville to enter into a contract to provide such improvement. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Battelle Places Bets On Coal Use

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When the Battelle Memorial Institute decides to spend $25 million of its own money to help resolve the energy crisis, where does it place its bets?

Laser? Solar energy cells? Nuclear fusion? Maybe a power unit which would run forever?

Nope. Battelle is betting on dull-as-dirt Ohio coal.

Last April, President Sherwood Fawcett announced that Battelle was investing the $25 million in a five-year program to develop the technology to end America's dependence on oil and gas.

"We've got about 20 programs identified so far with good economic and technical potential for a breakthrough, and so far all of it is coal," said Jack G. Conner, associate program director for laboratory coordination.

The Battelle energy program is applied research designed to give industry some immediate answers to oil and gas shortages.

It seeks to clear away within this decade the remaining technical problems which would prevent coal from re-emerging as a primary fuel.

"We have 47 per cent of the world's coal in the United States," said Associate Director Richard J. Anderson. "On the basis of what we used in 1972 we have enough coal to last 600 years.

Among the problems targeted by the Battelle study are:

—An economical way to convert coal to a liquid fuel, a process pioneered by Nazi Germany. It needs development to replace oil.

—Coal gasification, the process by which coal is converted into synthetic natural gas. "There used to be coal gasification plants in the United States but they were run off in the natural gas boom," said Anderson.

—Improved land reclamation procedures.

—Air pollution problems resulting from the burning of high-sulphur coal such as that found in Ohio. Conner said Battelle thinks there may be more potential in chemical removal of sulphur from coal prior to combustion than post-combustion removal of sulphur pollutants in the stacks.

—Ways to improve electric power plant efficiency by developing new coal combustion techniques. This is particularly important in Ohio, where 95 per cent of electrical energy is produced by coal.

Anderson and Conner view coal as a transition fuel from natural gas to the more exotic energy sources of the 21st Century.

Long after nuclear or solar power have filled the void, Anderson predicted, coal will be needed to replace oil and gas as chemical raw material for the manufacture of plastics and other compounds.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

His 'Last Hope'

DEAR ABBY: I am a "hermaphrodite." I have breasts like a woman, and the mind and emotions of a woman, yet the lower part of my anatomy is like a man.

I am 24, and my life has been pure hell. I feel like a freak, and have very few friends. I have wanted a sex change operation for a long time, but my parents are against it. They say I would be tampering with God's and nature's plan.

I have been away from home and financially independent for two years. I don't think I am wrong for wanting to be the sex I think I was meant to be, but I can't get anyone to agree with me.

I have talked to several ministers, and none of them has ever heard of this condition. They think I am "queer." I found one doctor who said he had heard and read about this freakish sexual development but he wasn't able to offer any help.

Abby, you are my last hope. Can you help me!

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Yes. Write to the Erickson Foundation, 4047 Hundred Oaks Avenue Baton Rouge, La. 70808. And tell them Abby told you to write. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: In response to your statement that humans are the only animals that blush: You are wrong. Laboratory rats have been trained to blush. Furthermore, I have seen them blush in only one ear!

HOUSTON

DEAR R.E.I.: Something they heard, I presume!

DEAR ABBY: Some stupid wife signed "Day Ruined" didn't want her husband home for lunch because it upset her routine.

I made the same mistake. When my husband started coming home for lunch I asked him to please eat downtown because it upset my routine. He ate his lunches downtown. Pretty soon he started eating his breakfasts downtown, too. And then he started staying downtown for dinner.

He finally asked me for a divorce so he could marry the pretty little waitress who had been serving him his meals!

Fortunately before the divorce went through I was able to win him back, but I never realized how close I came to having a RUINED life instead of a RUINED DAY.

WISER NOW

DEAR WISER: Wives, take note!

DEAR ABBY: What a dum dum—that wife who asked her husband to eat his lunches downtown because when he came home it "ruined" her day!

Tell him he can come to my house for lunch. It would make my day!

Funds Released For Westfall's School Buses

State Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker (D-Bourneville) announced today the release of $9,308 by the State Controlling Board for four new school buses for Westfall Local School District in Pickaway County.

The new 66-passenger buses will cost about $9,244 each with the state paying 27 per cent of the bill. The new buses will replace ones that have traveled over 110,000 miles.

"When buses get so old, it is necessary for the safety of the children that new ones be purchased," Rep. Shoemaker said. "The State of Ohio is helping provide safe transportation for our school children by assisting local school districts with such purchases."

Community Action To Direct Income Alert

The Community Action Agency of Circleville has been selected to direct the Supplemental Security Income Alert in Pickaway County, executive director Nancy Morgan announced today.

The purpose of this project is to find as quickly as possible persons who may be eligible, to help them for this income supplement, which is a new Federal Program. This program is a national effort, involving the Federal, State, County and local government agencies and private organizations. The program is administered by the Social Security District Office at 606 Central Center, in Chillicothe, Ohio.

Beginning in January 1974 the Social Security Administration began making payments to aged, blind and disabled persons whose income and resources are limited as defined in Title XVI of the Social Security Act. Further information can be obtained by contacting the Community Action Agency at 165 East Main Street.

Funds Released For Westfall's School Buses

State Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker (D-Bourneville) announced today the release of $9,308 by the State Controlling Board for four new school buses for Westfall Local School District in Pickaway County.

Americans Smoke More

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission said today it expects cigarette consumption for 1973 to show the largest yearly increase since the U.S. surgeon general warned of the effects of smoking on health.

Since the figures were preliminary and subject to adjustment later in the year, the FTC did not interpret the estimated 3.8 per cent increase in overall consumption.

But indications are that Americans smoked 5 to 8 packs more per person in 1973 than they did in 1972, despite the government's best efforts to discourage smoking over the past 10 years.

Americans in 1972 smoked nearly 201 packs per person, including smokers and nonsmokers, according to commission figures gathered from cigarette manufacturers.

In its required year-end report to Congress, the commission noted that experts have estimated 1973 consumption was up 3.8 per cent, which would make total consumption over 582 billion cigarettes. The 1972 total was 562 billion.

Community Action To Direct Income Alert

The Community Action Agency of Circleville has been selected to direct the Supplemental Security Income Alert in Pickaway County, executive director Nancy Morgan announced today.

The purpose of this project is to find as quickly as possible persons who may be eligible, to help them to this income supplement, which is a new Federal Program. This program is a national effort, involving the Federal, State, County and local government agencies and private organizations. The program is administered by the Social Security District Office at 606 Central Center, in Chillicothe, Ohio.

Beginning in January 1974 the Social Security Administration began making payments to aged, blind and disabled persons whose income and resources are limited as defined in Title XVI of the Social Security Act. Further information can be obtained by contacting the Community Action Agency at 165 East Main Street.

Too Much Snow Bad For Grouse

By JIM DAUBEL
Written for Associated Press

Snow in grouse woods is like salt on a $10 steak: an improvement in moderate amounts but disaster in excess.

I've had it both ways and experiences have been, well, educational.

The disaster first.

Herb Miller, then an Elyria stock broker, and I sneaked out of town one Wednesday, determined to chase grouse in Ashtabula County.

It had snowed overnight but we weren't dissuaded. If it was too deep, we agreed, we wouldn't hunt.

That still was the understanding when Herb, his German shorthair, Beau, and I waded into the woods through eight inches of fresh-fallen fluff. We would backtrack to the car if the going got too difficult.

Four hours later we were wandering lost, exhausted, hopefully too near our guessed-at destination to turn around and without a bird on which to stake a claim that it was all worthwhile.

We eventually got back safely but not until we both had suffered a hard lesson about hunting strange territory, especially on overcast days, without at least a compass and preferably a topographical map of the area also.

In moderate amounts, say three or four inches, fresh snow is immensely helpful to the grouse hunter.

If they have been hunted at all, grouse tend to be jumpy late in the season. But in a snowfall they seek cover in deadfalls, under pine trees or even in snow banks where they're inclined to sit tight, particularly when the white stuff muffles the steps of approaching hunters.

And there is nothing like new snow to betray the whereabouts of partridge that are moving on the ground.

I recall an outing on state land near Tappan Lake in Harrison County one January after an overnight snow. Circling a hillside, we came across a small grove of thorn-apple trees which usually are good grouse cover.

We combed the area but found no sign of birds. As we turned to leave, however, we spotted a single set of grouse tracks leading away from the trees into a broad expanse of low cover we had planned to pass up.

The foot prints led to a veritable chicken yard of grouse tracks and the hottest shooting we'd had all day.

Spring Fashion Collection Snappy, Dressy, Very Hot

NEW YORK (AP) — Gustave Tassell's spring collection for the House of Norrell looks snappy and dressy but very hot.

Tassell has kept the late Norrell's huge neck bows, which are crisp, fat and sassy. But they'd be devils on warm spring days. So would the satin and taffeta blouses which appear even hotter in black and brown.

However, hopefully and assuredly, the woman who buys them will step from cool limousine to cool restaurant with no fear of tell-tale signs of discomfort in high temperatures.

Prices aren't set yet, but so much the better. It's one of those lines people delicately refer to as "for the discerning woman," or "for the woman of taste." They're trying to say prices can rise to $2,000 if a business manager doesn't slap the designer's hands, jolt him out of his creative rapture and send him back to find less expensive fabric or less intricate detail work.

Tassell smashes solids together — blue and white, red and black. The look is clean, dramatic and glamorous. He generally steers clear of fussy prints and takes to windowpane plaids or polka dots, if he uses patterns at all.

Some of his best-looking designs are a series of narrow, dark blue capes. And some dark blue silk pajamas with full-length silk coat. His series of white wool coats got much applause.

Tassell says he's found an increasing interest in entertaining at home. Thus, the pajamas.

His day look is narrow. One bunch of simple, straight evening dresses with straight-cut necks cried out for one's best emerald and diamond necklace.

Energy Problems To Remain Even If Embargo Is Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — An end to the Arab oil embargo, whenever it comes, will not bring an immediate end to the United States' energy problems.

Eric R. Zausner, an assistant administrator of the Federal Energy Office, said in an interview Tuesday that a nagging oil shortage could drag on for months or years after the embargo is lifted.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger indicated Wednesday that the oil cutoff, begun last October, would end before Arab and Israeli troops complete their withdrawals from their confrontation lines in the Middle East.

Kissinger did not say when the oil might start flowing again, but his prediction seemed to suggest within a few months.

Asked how this would affect the U.S. energy crisis Zausner, the FEO's data-watcher, pointed out that improvement would be as slow to arrive as was the impact of the embargo.

Considering the travel time of oil tankers from the Persian Gulf, it took almost a month for the October start of the embargo to reduce oil imports at U.S. ports, and the full impact was not reached until this month.

Zausner said it probably would take at least four to six weeks or more for Persian Gulf oil to begin reaching the United States once the Arabs release it. He said it could take longer depending how rapidly Arab oil production returns to past levels.

"It could stretch beyond four to six weeks before we even get back to last September's import level," said Zausner.

From an all-time high of 7.1 million barrels a day in early November, the embargo has cost the United States a drop in imports of about 2.2 million barrels a day and the loss may still be increasing.

Even if the Arabs restored previous shipment levels the United States still would not be getting enough, Zausner said.

"We have to get more oil than the pre-embargo levels to meet our rising demands," said Zausner.

Cancer Crusade Training Course This Weekend

Volunteers from Pickaway County Unit will be in Columbus Saturday and Sunday for the American Cancer Society, Ohio Division Crusade Training Conference.

They will join with over 500 fellow volunteers from throughout Ohio to map strategy for the 1974 ACS crusade of education and fund-raising.

The spirit of the two-day gathering is "Cautious Optimism" according to Mrs. Georgia Walker, executive secretary of the Pickaway County unit.

Highlights of the meeting will include the handing over of the "Sword Of Hope" (symbol of the ACS) from Bob Johnson, captain and star center of the Cincinnati Bengals, the 1973 Ohio Division Crusade chairman, to John Hambrick, northeast Ohio newscaster, chairman for the 1974 crusade, and the keynote address by Hambrick.

Other important features are individual workshops on specific crusade areas and a preview of the 1974 crusade materials.

Base Closings Are Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials say the Pentagon is looking to cut costs by about $500 million a year with a new round of military base closings and reductions.

The individual armed services have started submitting base lists for consideration by Defense officials, the Associated Press has learned. Final decisions have not yet been made.

Because of the nation's economic troubles officials anticipate more resistance than usual in the next round.

Congressmen always object to shutting down bases in their home districts and Pentagon officials expect them to oppose such moves even more strongly now because of concern that their affected constituents may have difficulty getting other jobs in a faltering economy.

What's more, every member of the House and one-third of the Senate, except for the few who are retiring, will be aware of coming battles for re-election this fall and thus may fight even harder against base closings.

The Challenge We're meeting it.

Providing for our customers energy requirements is a challenge we have met and one we will continue to meet.

Effective and efficient planning has enabled us to provide adequate and reliable electric service for our customers. Our engineers and planners have been busy making projections of customer requirements . . . where . . . how much . . . and when to determine where lines and substations must be located.

To do this requires a tremendous amount of money.

In 1974 alone Columbus and Southern will spend more than $150 million and commit another $350 million for the replacement and expansion of electrical facilities to serve our customers.

Our total investment in plant and equipment is $715 million. By 1980 we will more than double this amount, and we will more than double our generating capabilities. This means we must spend an average of $1400 more per customer by 1980 just to provide the equipment to supply his electrical needs.

Even though we intend to keep pace and do what is necessary to meet environmental regulations, we must confess that this will mean increased costs to us which must eventually be passed along to our customers.

We are looking ahead to the future when advanced technology will allow us to analyze and design extra high voltage transmission systems, miniaturized substations and automated electric systems for even greater reliability and performance.

We've met the challenges of today, now we're planning for tomorrow.

Congressmen always object to shutting down bases in their home districts and Pentagon officials expect them to oppose such moves even more strongly now because of concern that their affected constituents may have difficulty getting other jobs in a faltering economy.

What's more, every member of the House and one-third of the Senate, except for the few who are retiring, will be aware of coming battles for re-election this fall and thus may fight even harder against base closings.

The Challenge

We're meeting it.

Providing for our customers energy requirements is a challenge we have met and one we will continue to meet.

Effective and efficient planning has enabled us to provide adequate and reliable electric service for our customers. Our engineers and planners have been busy making projections of customer requirements . . . where . . . how much . . . and when to determine where lines and substations must be located.

To do this requires a tremendous amount of money.

In 1974 alone Columbus and Southern will spend more than $150 million and commit another $350 million for the replacement and expansion of electrical facilities to serve our customers.

Our total investment in plant and equipment is $715 million. By 1980 we will more than double this amount, and we will more than double our generating capabilities. This means we must spend an average of $1400 more per customer by 1980 just to provide the equipment to supply his electrical needs.

Even though we intend to keep pace and do what is necessary to meet environmental regulations, we must confess that this will mean increased costs to us which must eventually be passed along to our customers.

We are looking ahead to the future when advanced technology will allow us to analyze and design extra high voltage transmission systems, miniaturized substations and automated electric systems for even greater reliability and performance.

We've met the challenges of today, now we're planning for tomorrow.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

When a combination of the energy shortage and unpleasant weather keep you and your child home, don't stop exploring. Books in the revised "Adventures in Learning" Series offer new activities. "Wonders of Science" by Bertha Morris combines fun and learning with a fish bowl toy. Similar experiments use water mirrors, paper clips and common objects. A cut up balloon serves as a fish and will float in a funnel that is placed tightly into a bottle. The child provides the energy through a straw to force the water up into the funnel.

"The Thinking Book" by Holl suggests guessing games about animals and familiar objects. Children are asked to think about situations. For instance, how will the little boy rescue the kitten in a picture showing a ladder, a tree and Stevie? Other puzzlers include questions asked the reader about what the active children pictured are doing. Often a decision must be made on a right or wrong action towards another person.

Can a child take a bath in a teacup? This is an example of the humorous lessons on size in "Learning About Sizes" by Tina Thoburn. Matching games and pictures of popcorn swelling underline the meaning of large and small.

The differences between animals that are born and those that are hatched are pictured in "Nature Wonderland" by Bertha Parker. Like and unlike plants, insects and seeds and comparisons of crawling, hopping and running are included. More games make learning numbers one through ten fun in "Understanding Numbers" by Ellen Clark. And we follow an ape through the pages of Discovering Shapes" by Thoburn as he learns circles and other common shapes. Riet's "The Magic of Everyday Things" suggests activities for fun without planned games. Imaginative play such as making a play train from chairs and childproof household objects will rescue mothers and housebound children.

Other learning books not in the series include the "Looking Book" by Mary Ann Hoberman. Giant numbers are props in an exciting mystery featuring a lost cat. Ned must search every numbered page to find his pet in this unusual approach to understanding numbers.

The fearsome octopus is sympathetically portrayed in "Octopus" by Evelyn Shaw. A creature who must escape her enemies and make a home for her babies, her arms are used to catch food and move rocks. Her changes of color and shape as she faces danger will appeal to children. Comparisons of the helplessness of a woodchuck baby and the independence of a new born snake are colorfully illustrated in "when Animals are Babies" by Elizabeth Schwartz.

Children will marvel at "My Visit to the Dinosaurs" by Aliki. Interestingly, the heaviest of all dinosaurs, the brachiosaurus, was a plant eater. Not all were ferocious looking as some small ones had no teeth and ate only eggs. Your child may dream of dinosaurs instead of elves, but he will have learned something.

Stock Market Drop No Academic Matter

NEW YORK (AP) — You may think that just because you don't own any stock, the market slump last year was a purely academic matter.

But if you are one of the millions of Americans in a corporate pension plan which has heavy investments in the stock market, a few more down years like 1973 could eventually have an impact on your future retirement benefits.

Last year's losses, although they ran into the billions of dollars on paper, will have little if any immediate effect on workers in the plans. Their benefits and contributions are fixed in advance, guaranteed by their companies and protected in a variety of ways.

But if market losses continue much beyond this year, the decline could force pension funds to change their investment policies in order to prevent a broad revision of the future structure of pension funds.

One fund adviser, Martin E. Segal, president of Wertheim Asset Management Service, says a one-year market decline would have "no financial impact of any consequence" on a soundly financed pension fund.

But the 1973 slump followed two relatively lethargic years for the market, and Segal adds that a three-to five-year decline could have a serious long-range impact.

"It could result in 'higher employee or employer contributions (to the fund) or possibly downward revision of employee benefit programs,'" he says.

If a company's assets were greatly reduced by a prolonged market slide, for instance, it might tell workers that instead of receiving retirement benefits based on 2 per cent of their annual salary, their future payments would be figured on the basis of only 1 1/4 per cent.

Segal and other big money managers are predicting that pension funds, in an effort to head off such a situation, may abandon their infatuation with stocks and return to the comparative safety of fixed-income investments such as bonds.

This switch of philosophy by some of the nation's largest investors concerns every worker, because the source of pension funds' massive stock or bond purchases is either employee payroll contributions or corporate money earmarked for employee benefit plans.

The success or failure of these investments can ultimately determine whether workers receive generous or limited benefits. And it can also affect the financial position of the companies which employ these workers.

Drivers Ignore Voluntary Cut In Speed Limit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than 60 per cent of the vehicles on a surveyed stretch of Interstate 70 exceeded the voluntary 55 mile per hour speed limit, an Associated Press spot check showed Wednesday.

Of 26 cars checked on the interstate between Columbus and Newark, only 10 complied with the voluntary limit. Sixteen were traveling at speeds ranging from 60 to 70 m.p.h.

Eight trucks, ranging from a flat-bed rig to a large van, observed the legal truck limit of 55.

Ohio and federal officials have asked that motorists travel no faster than 55 to conserve fuel. Ohio has posted signs on interstates reading "Fuel Emergency, 55 m.p.h."

Sunday School Awards Teacher Of The Year

The 6th annual Sunday School Teachers Appreciation Banquet of the Church of the Nazarene was held Monday in the fellowship building. Mrs. James Sargent was presented the "Teacher of the Year" award. The award is based on cooperation of the teacher calling on absentees, faithfulness to class duties, and courses taken to improve herself as a teacher.

Mrs. Sargent has taught Sunday School for many years. She and her family moved from Kentucky about 2½ years ago. She enjoys reading and sewing. She and her family have been a real asset to the church and the community.

Following invocation by Pastor William Hill, dinner was served by the teens of the church. Roger Hobbie, Sunday School Superintendent, recognized Richard Anderson for the great job in preparing the banquet. Mr. Hobbie commented on the growth of the Sunday School. He spoke of the appreciation and concern that each Sunday School teacher should have for his class.

Sam Stimpert, assistant to the pastor sang, "Only To Be What He Wants Me To Be." Pastor Hill brought to our attention the responsibility we have in winning others to Christ through the work of the Sunday School. We must have love, compassion, concern, dependability, dedication, cooperation, faithfulness and patience to carry on the great commission of Christ.

Sam Stimpert sang, "I Want To Be Like Jesus". Richard Anderson gave the benediction.

Attending the event were: Pastor and Mrs. William Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stimpert, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hobbie, Mr. and Mrs. Don Gumm, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Swank, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Justice, Mr. and Mrs. Harl Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Carter, Mr. and Mrs. James Greiner, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. David Caudill, Mr. and Mrs. James Crabtree, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anderson, William Lutz, Mrs. Alene King, Mrs. James Greiner, Mrs. Marshall McFarland, Mrs. Leona Anderson, Mrs. Roy Wolford, Mrs. Philip Manson, Mrs. Lucille Peters, Mrs. Edward Starkey, Mrs. Tom Sipes, Mrs. Daryl Thompson, Mrs. Marion Rhoades, Mrs. James Sargent, Charlene Fouch, Noel Crawford, Ethel Grooms, Karen Allen, Robin Manson, Bill Hill, Martha Hollabaugh, Pam Anderson, Debbie Allen, Karla Anderson and Shelly Swank.

Clearing weather is expected in southern Ohio late today and tonight as a high pressure extends over the area from Illinois to Pennsylvania.

This high pressure is forecast to remain through Friday, giving another fair day as temperatures continue above normal for late January. Afternoon temperatures today are expected in the upper 30s or low 40s.

Skies cleared in northern Ohio late Wednesday but remained overcast in the extreme southern portion of the state. Light rain was reported in portions of Kentucky, associated with a frontal system extending from the Virginia capes to the Texas coast.

Looking further ahead, slightly warmer weather is scheduled for Saturday but with a chance of rain.

Head Stocks Set For Litterbugs

MILLBORO SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Litterbugs beware.

A civic group here has proposed Virginia return to a Colonial-style punishment for litterbugs — put the culprits in leg and head stocks.

Millboro Ruritan Club, having just completed a community cleanup project on Bath County roads in western Virginia, are up in arms about the amount of trash they found.

The club members proposed Wednesday night that litterbugs be confined to the stocks on the front lawn of the county courthouse where they would be subjected "to the righteous scorn, indignation and spittle of the local citizenry."

They have sent their petition to Gov. Mills Godwin.

Columbus NAACP Chief Said Ousted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The National Associate for the Advancement of Colored People has ousted Walter Cates as president of the Columbus branch, it was announced Wednesday.

The national NAACP action also bars Cates from holding office for two years.

Local NAACP leaders suspended Cates after a dispute over finances.

6th Graders Support President

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Steve Schwein is an elementary school teacher and a Democrat. But he says a letter written by his sixth grade class supporting President Nixon "has taught me a lesson."

Thirty students signed the letter which was sent to the White House today urging Nixon to weather the storm because "our teacher gives us a second chance. So we think that the Americans should give you a second chance."

Included with the letter was a gift of cuff links and tie clasp bearing the American flag. The students asked President Nixon to wear them during next week's State of the Union Address.

The gift was bought with "whatever money they could scrape together," said Schwein. "Some of them won't be going to the movies this weekend."

"It would be kind of a sign to us that you believe in Americans the way we in Room 12 believe in you," the handwritten letter said.

"We think that you can do your job well no matter what the others say. We all thank you for bringing our prisoners back from the war. We also thank you for stopping the war. So we know you can work this one out."

Drugs Seized At Kent State

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Law enforcement authorities seized 52 pounds of marijuana, $2,000 in cash and several weapons after they arrested three men in a parking lot on the Kent State University campus Wednesday night.

Kent city police identified those arrested as Verne McClelland, 19, and David A. Rostan, 21, both KSU students, and James E. Owens, 28, who is not a student.

The three were surrounded near the Tri-Towers dormitory, police said. A room search later uncovered quantities of unidentified tablets and capsules, police said.

Foreign Office To Cost Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio will spend $200,000 to maintain a foreign trade development office in Germany, David C. Sweet, director of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development said Wednesday.

Sweet said the money will fund the office for a year beginning in March.

He said $125,000 of the budget will come from a special fund in the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services. The additional $75,000 will come from the development department, he said.

Nixon To Soften Drug Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to ask Congress for a softened version of last year's tough proposals to deal with suspected narcotics pushers, administration sources say.

The 1973 administration bill was widely opposed in Congress and never moved out of committee. Consequently, the White House has chosen to back away from the toughest features though the skeleton of the bill remains intact, a White House source said Wednesday.

Nixon is preparing to offer the revised version in a message to Congress next month and may allude to it in his State of the Union address on Wednesday night.

The White House source and other officials said the modification of last year's plan will be the only legislation Nixon requests in the heroin trafficking message, though he may describe other administrative efforts dealing with drug pushing.

The administration proposal will retain these key features from the 1973 bill:

—Federal judges would be given authority to deny bail to those arrested and awaiting trial on narcotics trafficking charges.

—Federal judges would be required to jail convicted pushers for certain minimum sentences.

The White House source said the modified proposal reduces the minimum sentences and backs away to some degree from the stringent preventive detention feature offered last year.

Unlike the 1973 plan, it also would apply to dealers in all major hard drugs instead of heroin pushers alone. Neither proposal would apply to addicts dealing in drugs for their own use.

This source, who has worked with Drug Enforcement Administration officials in drafting the bill, said the White House chose "to soften up a tad and apply it to other drugs" in a bid for congressional support.

He conceded the preventive detention feature drew opposition from

"a lot of Republicans" as well as Democrats in Congress.

Most of the opposition is based on constitutional questions. The opponents, including Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., contend that jailing an individual before he is convicted violates his right to a presumption of innocence until proven guilty.

Sunday School Awards Teacher Of The Year

The 6th annual Sunday School Teachers Appreciation Banquet of the Church of the Nazarene was held Monday in the fellowship building. Mrs. James Sargent was presented the "Teacher of the Year" award. The award is based on cooperation of the teacher calling on absentees, faithfulness to class duties, and courses taken to improve herself as a teacher.

Mrs. Sargent has taught Sunday School for many years. She and her family moved from Kentucky about 2½ years ago. She enjoys reading and sewing. She and her family have been a real asset to the church and the community.

Following invocation by Pastor William Hill, dinner was served by the teens of the church. Roger Hobbie, Sunday School Superintendent, recognized Richard Anderson for the great job in preparing the banquet. Mr. Hobbie commented on the growth of the Sunday School. He spoke of the appreciation and concern that each Sunday School teacher should have for his class.

Sam Stimpert, assistant to the pastor sang, "Only To Be What He Wants Me To Be". Pastor Hill brought to our attention the responsibility we have in winning others to Christ through the work of the Sunday School. We must have love, compassion, concern, dependability, dedication, cooperation, faithfulness and patience to carry on the great commission of Christ.

Sam Stimpert sang, "I Want To Be Like Jesus". Richard Anderson gave the benediction.

Attending the event were: Pastor and Mrs. William Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stimpert, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hobbie, Mr. and Mrs. Don Gumm, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Swank, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Justice, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Carter, Mr. and Mrs. James Greiner, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. David Caudill, Mr. and Mrs. James Crabtree, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anderson, William Lutz, Mrs. Alene King, Mrs. James Greiner, Mrs. Marshall McFarland, Mrs. Leona Anderson, Mrs. Roy Wolford, Mrs. Philip Manson, Mrs. Lucille Peters, Mrs. Edward Starkey, Mrs. Tom Sipes, Mrs. Daryl Thompson, Mrs. Marion Rhoades, Mrs. James Sargent, Charlene Fouch, Noel Crawford, Ethel Grooms, Karen Allen, Robin Manson, Bill Hill, Martha Hollabaugh, Pam Anderson, Debbie Allen, Karla Anderson and Shelly Swank.

Clearing weather is expected in southern Ohio late today and tonight as a high pressure extends over the area from Illinois to Pennsylvania.

This high pressure is forecast to remain through Friday, giving another fair day as temperatures continue above normal for late January. Afternoon temperatures today are expected in the upper 30s or low 40s.

Skies cleared in northern Ohio late Wednesday but remained overcast in the extreme southern portion of the state. Light rain was reported in portions of Kentucky, associated with a frontal system extending from the Virginia capes to the Texas coast.

Looking further ahead, slightly warmer weather is scheduled for Saturday but with a chance of rain.

Head Stocks Set For Litterbugs

MILLBORO SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Litterbugs beware.

A civic group here has proposed Virginia return to a Colonial-style punishment for litterbugs — put the culprits in leg and head stocks.

Millboro Ruritan Club, having just completed a community cleanup project on Bath County roads in western Virginia, are up in arms about the amount of trash they found.

The club members proposed Wednesday night that litterbugs be confined to the stocks on the front lawn of the county courthouse where they would be subjected "to the righteous scorn, indignation and spittle of the local citizenry."

They have sent their petition to Gov. Mills Godwin.

Columbus NAACP Chief Said Ousted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The National Associate for the Advancement of Colored People has ousted Walter Cates as president of the Columbus branch, it was announced Wednesday.

The national NAACP action also bars Cates from holding office for two years.

Local NAACP leaders suspended Cates after a dispute over finances.

6th Graders Support President

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Steve Schwein is an elementary school teacher and a Democrat. But he says a letter written by his sixth grade class supporting President Nixon "has taught me a lesson."

Thirty students signed the letter which was sent to the White House today urging Nixon to weather the storm because "our teacher gives us a second chance. So we think that the Americans should give you a second chance."

Included with the letter was a gift of cuff links and tie clasp bearing the American flag. The students asked President Nixon to wear them during next week's State of the Union Address.

The gift was bought with "whatever money they could scrape together," said Schwein. "Some of them won't be going to the movies this weekend."

"It would be kind of a sign to us that you believe in Americans the way we in Room 12 believe in you," the handwritten letter said.

"We think that you can do your job well no matter what the others say. We all thank you for bringing our prisoners back from the war. We also thank you for stopping the war. So we know you can work this one out."

Drugs Seized At Kent State

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Law enforcement authorities seized 32 pounds of marijuana, $2,000 in cash and several weapons after they arrested three men in a parking lot on the Kent State University campus Wednesday night.

Kent city police identified those arrested as Verne McClelland, 19, and David A. Rostan, 21, both KSU students, and James E. Owens, 28, who is not a student.

The three were surrounded near the Tri-Towers dormitory, police said. A room search later uncovered quantities of unidentified tablets and capsules, police said.

Foreign Office To Cost Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio will spend $200,000 to maintain a foreign trade development office in Germany, David C. Sweet, director of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development said Wednesday.

Sweet said the money will fund the office for a year beginning in March.

He said $125,000 of the budget will come from a special fund in the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services. The additional $75,000 will come from the development department, he said.

Nixon To Soften Drug Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to ask Congress for a softened version of last year's tough proposals to deal with suspected narcotics pushers, administration sources say.

The 1973 administration bill was widely opposed in Congress and never moved out of committee. Consequently, the White House has chosen to back away from the toughest features though the skeleton of the bill remains intact, a White House source said Wednesday.

Nixon is preparing to offer the revised version in a message to Congress next month and may allude to it in his State of the Union address on Wednesday night.

The White House source and other officials said the modification of last year's plan will be the only legislation Nixon requests in the heroin trafficking message, though he may describe other administrative efforts dealing with drug pushing.

The administration proposal will retain these key features from the 1973 bill:

—Federal judges would be given authority to deny bail to those arrested and awaiting trial on narcotics trafficking charges.

—Federal judges would be required to jail convicted pushers for certain minimum sentences.

The White House source said the modified proposal reduces the minimum sentences and backs away to some degree from the stringent preventive detention feature offered last year.

Unlike the 1973 plan, it also would apply to dealers in all major hard drugs instead of heroin pushers alone. Neither proposal would apply to addicts dealing in drugs for their own use.

This source, who has worked with Drug Enforcement Administration officials in drafting the bill, said the White House chose "to soften up a tad and apply it to other drugs" in a bid for congressional support.

He conceded the preventive detention feature drew opposition from

"a lot of Republicans" as well as Democrats in Congress.

Most of the opposition is based on constitutional questions. The opponents, including Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., contend that jailing an individual before he is convicted violates his right to a presumption of innocence until proven guilty.

CHS Tigers Host Greenfield Friday

Circleville will host Greenfield Friday night on the high school floor in what has now turned out to be a battle for place in the South Central Ohio League race.

The Red and Black cagers are now 4-4 in league play while Greenfield is sporting a 3-4 mark. Miami Trace is holding down the top spot in the league with a 6-1 mark, Washington C. H. is 5-1, Hillsboro 5-2, Circleville 4-4;

Greenfield 3-4, Madison Plains 1-6 and Wilmington is 0-6.

This throws Circleville, Greenfield and Hillsboro into a battle for the third place spot at the present time.

It will also be parent's night for the Red and Black.

Starting for Greenfield will be: Bill Flynn, 5-foot-10, and Joe Stewart, 5-foot-7, at the guards, Steve Willett, 6-foot-3, at center with Steve Harvey, 6-foot-2, and Curt Hull, 6-foot, working up front. Jeff Holsinger, 5-foot-8, and Gary Barr, 6-foot-1, will be the first two Greenfield cagers coming off the bench.

Willett is the leading scorer and rebounder for Greenfield. Flynn and Harvey add punch to the offense and both are scoring in double figures.

On defense, Greenfield will use a man to man but will switch into a 1-2-2 zone at times.

Circleville will be out to get back on the winning track after suffering losses in its last three outings. The Tigers are now 7-5 on the season.

The Roundtown Tigers are averaging 61.7 points per game while limiting the opposition to 55.6 markers per contest.

They are shooting at a 43.1 per cent from the floor and 66.8 per cent from the charity stripe.

Harold Reed leads the Red and Black scoring with an average of 14 points a game, Kris Kline has a 13 point average, Robin Martin 11.6, Perry Hoskins 10.2, Doug Radabaugh 6.4 and John Ankrom 3.0.

Reed and Kline are leading the team in offensive and defensive rebounds. Starting for Circleville against Greenfield will be: Martin and Radabaugh at the guards, Kline at center with Reed and Hoskins at the forward posts.

Coach Dennis Stewart's undefeated reserve team will be going after its 13th win in the preliminary.

'Must' Year For Reds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sparky Anderson keeps maintaining Cincinnati is baseball's best team, but the silver-haired Reds manager admits 1974 is a put-up-or-shut-up year to support his contention.

"I've been blowing this hot air for four years and we've won nothing," said Anderson, whose Reds have won three of the last four National League West division titles.

However, they are 0-for-2 in World Series tries and Sparky thinks that's about to change. The Reds lost the postseason classic to Baltimore in 1970 and Oakland in 1972.

Cincinnati didn't survive the NL playoffs with the Mets last year. Anderson though thinks the Reds' main 1973 weakness of balance has been solved in offseason trades.

"The Mets killed us with their left-handers. We shamed ourselves in the playoffs," said Anderson Wednesday night during the Reds' winter caravan covering four states in five days.

The Reds shipped pitcher Ross Grimsley for right-handed hitting outfielder Merv Rettenmund from Baltimore. They dealt the controversial Bobby Tolan to San Diego for righthander Clay Kirby.

Rettenmund and Kirby, contends Anderson, will solve Cincinnati's balance this year.

"I told Rettenmund I would put him in center field and it was up to him to win the job," the Reds skipper said. If he flunks, Rettenmund will alternate in right field with rookie Ken Griffey, who hit .327 at Indianapolis last year. Cesar Geronimo and George Foster would split the job in center.

"Kirby gives us a two-two balance in our starting pitchers. Last year we had three lefties in the rotation," Anderson reminded.

Kirby and Jack Billingham, who won 19 games last season, are the right-handers with the southpaws being Fred Norman and Don Gullett.

Anderson said Gary Nolan and Roger Nelson, saddled with injuries last year, will have to win back their pitching jobs.

The Cincinnati manager said shortstop Dave Concepcion, who broke a leg in midseason last summer, is 80 to 85 per cent recovered. "I expect him to be 100 per cent by the end of spring training," Anderson said.

Anderson forecasts a big comeback for all-star catcher John Bench, who hit .253, homered 25 times and knocked in 104 runs in 1973.

"For John, that was an off year," his manager said. "I'm betting we have the MVP again." Cincinnati left fielder Pete Rose won the MVP honor last season.

Although he terms this his best Reds club, Anderson still feels 92 to 95 victories will win the NL West. "San Diego is much better and so is Atlanta," he said.

Ray Kroc To Buy San Diego Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Maybe they'll have to rename Willie McCovey "Big Mac."

Which is another way of saying the San Diego Padres likely will be playing this season under the sole ownership of Ray Kroc, who made his fortune as founder and chairman of the McDonald's hamburger chain.

The 71-year-old Chicago millionaire confirmed Wednesday night he has agreed to buy the team from C. Arnholt Smith for a price in the neighborhood of $10 million.

Kroc said he expected to pay the money today and announce that the sale was "99 per cent complete" at a news conference this afternoon. And he added he will keep the Padres in San Diego permanently.

"I'm thinking of nothing but San Diego," he said in an interview. "I bought this team to have fun. If I was going to make an investment to make money I sure as hell wouldn't buy the Padres."

"But I think we will eventually make money, and in two more years we will have a contender."

He said he expected agreement with the city of San Diego on a stadium lease today and approval by the National League in about a week.

The financially troubled Smith tried twice last year to sell the Padres, once to a group led by racetrack owner Marjorie Everett, who wanted to keep the team here, and once to market chain owner Joseph Danzansky, who was trying to bring baseball back to Washington, D.C.

But club owners rejected the Everett group, and Danzansky has had trouble arranging to cover damages from two suits by the city of San Diego, one for breach of the stadium lease and the other charging antitrust violations.

The Padres, who have lost more than 500 games in five last-place seasons, have acquired some big-name talent recently, including McCovey, Glenn Beckert, Matty Alou and Bobby Tolan.

"The Padres are the lowest paid team in both leagues and I think that spells out where they are," Kroc said.

"I've been a stupid idiot fan of the Chicago Cubs since 1909 and I've been trying to buy them since 1965, and if you can suffer with the Cubs for all those years you can take anything."

Supersonics Edge Celtics

As player and coach of the Celtics, Bill Russell won plenty of big games in Boston. Wednesday night he beat them, but the thrill was gone.

"It was just another game," Coach Russell said following Seattle's 98-97 triumph, the SuperSonics' first National Basketball Association victory over the Celtics in Boston or anywhere else in two years. "We need a couple more wins."

With Milwaukee, Chicago and Detroit all playing excellent ball in the Midwest Division, Seattle's only apparent hope of making the playoffs is to win the Pacific Division title. The third-place Sonics trail Los Angeles by 6½ games.

In other NBA action, the Milwaukee Bucks ripped Buffalo 114-88, the Detroit Pistons whipped Portland 121-95, the Houston Rockets downed Atlanta 114-104 and the Phoenix Suns tripped the Cleveland Cavaliers 110-103.

Kennedy McIntosh's 20-foot jump shot with 20 seconds left and two free throws by Spencer Haywood with three seconds to go enabled Seattle to upset Boston. The basket nullified a fourth-period Boston rally led by Art Williams and Dave Cowens that overcame a 15-point Seattle lead.

Fred Brown had 26 points for the Sonics, Haywood had 23 and Dick Snyder 19. Cowens led all scorers with 32 points and John Havlicek added 23 for the Celts.

Logan Elm Wrestlers Beat Madison Plains, 52-18

The Logan Elm High School wrestling team defeated visiting Madison Plains 52-18 Wednesday, winning all but three matches.

The Braves won the first match by forfeit when Madison Plains had no 98-pounder to pit against John Scanlon. The 105-pound class went to Madison Plains' David Peart who pinned Dennis Redman in the first period.

Gary Hall, LE's 112-pounder, won by forfeit. In the 119-pound class, Danny Styles of LE pinned Mike Davison in the third period.

Mark Fouch added the 126-pound class to the Braves' side of the ledger pinning Charles Tindel in the second period.

David Hulse of Logan Elm wasted no time in pinning Gene Nelson in 1:51 of the first period. Don Grate decided Keith Cordle 7-0 to win the 138-pound class for Logan Elm. In the 145-pound class Don Maxson won 11-0 over Ben Rainsberger.

Bill Benner pinned Karl Buck in the third period to take the 155-pound class for the Braves. Dale Reynolds of the Braves pinned Jeff Minner in the 167-pound class. Monte Woods of Logan Elm and Dan Sony of Madison Plains were headed for a 0-0 draw when Sony finally managed to pin Woods with 53 seconds to go in the third period of the 175-pound class.

Brian Herron was awarded a point

just before the match ended as he edged Tim Bierbaugh of Madison Plains, 7-6. In the heavyweight, Tom Shaw of Logan Elm was pinned by Mike Miller in the first period. The next competition for LE is at the Richmond North Union Tournament beginning 11 a.m. Saturday.

Cincinnati Tops Clippers

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Peter McNab marked his return to the Cincinnati Swords Wednesday night with a goal in a 5-1 victory over the Baltimore Clippers.

It was the second straight victory for the defending American Hockey League champs, who fielded a full squad for the first time in two months. Injuries tumbled the Swords out of first place after they had gone unbeaten for their first 10 games.

Providence Edges Boston College In Cage Action

By ANDY LIPPMAN
AP Sports Writer

Even the bad shots were good for Kevin Stacom Wednesday night.

With two seconds remaining in overtime, the 6-foot-5 senior took an inbound pass from Mark McAndrews and put up a shot which didn't feel right but which accomplished its objective, giving eighth-ranked Providence a 79-77 college basketball victory over Boston College.

"I didn't even think it was a real good shot," said Stacom of his 20-footer game-winner. "I might have forced it a little, but when I saw it in the air, I knew it was good."

Stacom finished with 24 points including two free throws earlier in the overtime which tied the game 77-77.

In other games involving Top 20 teams, ninth-ranked Alabama beat Georgia Tech 102-83 and Louisville took a 90-72 victory over Dayton.

Providence's Marvin Barnes fouled out with 2:23 remaining in regulation time after scoring 29 points and 13 rebounds, but Boston College, with Jere Nolan and Bob Carrington each scoring 20, had the lead until Providence's Rick Santos tied the game 73-73 with 2:01 remaining.

Alabama placed six men in double figures against Georgia Tech, while topping the 100-point mark for the first time this season.

Guard Ray Odums led the Crimson Tide, now 12-2, with 18 points, hitting six of eight field goal attempts and all six attempts from the free throw line.

Louisville had an easy time with Dayton, building up a 15-point first-half lead on the way to its ninth straight victory.

Louisville was led by Allen Murphy with 20 points and guard Junior Bridgeman's 18.

In other top games, Larry Lewis scored a career-high 17 points to lead Pennsylvania over Villanova 83-61 and Mel Utley's 22 points helped St. John's N.Y. to a 64-49 victory over Temple in the other part of a doubleheader at Philadelphia's Palestra.

Larry Horowitz and Mike Sorrentino each scored 13 points as Davidson edged Virginia 64-63; Wake Forest downed Duke 90-71; Butler upset Evansville 68-64; Alcorn A&M, ranked second in The Associated Press Small College Poll, beat Tougaloo College 95-75 and Oklahoma City downed Texas-Arlington 85-71.

Ali-Frazier End Big Money?

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali could earn $3 million apiece Monday night in what will be the last of the super-money fights if Ali loses, says a man who makes it his business to know about such things.

"It will be the last of the big gate-fights, with the exception of a George Foreman-Ali fight," promoter Bob Arum said Wednesday, noting that a Foreman-Ali fight stands or falls on how Ali does against Frazier.

CHS Tigers Host Greenfield Friday

Circleville will host Greenfield Friday night on the high school floor in what has now turned out to be a battle for place in the South Central Ohio League race.

The Red and Black cagers are now 4-4 in league play while Greenfield is sporting a 3-4 mark. Miami Trace is holding down the top spot in the league with a 6-1 mark, Washington C. H. is 5-1, Hillsboro 5-2, Circleville 4-4;

Greenfield 3-4, Madison Plains 1-6 and Wilmington is 0-6.

This throws Circleville, Greenfield and Hillsboro into a battle for the third place spot at the present time.

It will also be parent's night for the Red and Black.

Starting for Greenfield will be: Bill Flynn, 5-foot-10, and Joe Stewart, 5-foot-7, at the guards, Steve Willett, 6-foot-3, at center with Steve Harvey, 6-foot-2, and Curt Hull, 6-foot, working up front. Jeff Holsinger, 5-foot-8, and Gary Barr, 6-foot-1, will be the first two Greenfield cagers coming off the bench.

Willett is the leading scorer and rebounder for Greenfield. Flynn and Harvey add punch to the offense and both are scoring in double figures.

On defense, Greenfield will use a man to man but will switch into a 1-2-2 zone at times.

Circleville will be out to get back on the winning track after suffering losses in its last three outings. The Tigers are now 7-5 on the season.

The Roundtown Tigers are averaging 61.7 points per game while limiting the opposition to 55.6 markers per contest.

They are shooting at a 43.1 per cent from the floor and 66.8 per cent from the charity stripe.

Harold Reed leads the Red and Black scoring with an average of 14 points a game, Kris Kline has a 13 point average, Robin Martin 11.6, Perry Hoskins 10.2, Doug Radabaugh 6.4 and John Ankrom 3.0.

Reed and Kline are leading the team in offensive and defensive rebounds.

Starting for Circleville against Greenfield will be: Martin and Radabaugh at the guards, Kline at center with Reed and Hoskins at the forward posts.

Coach Dennis Stewart's undefeated reserve team will be going after its 13th win in the preliminary.

'Must' Year For Reds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sparky Anderson keeps maintaining Cincinnati is baseball's best team, but the silver-haired Reds manager admits 1974 is a put-up-or-shut-up year to support his contention.

"I've been blowing this hot air for four years and we've won nothing," said Anderson, whose Reds have won three of the last four National League West division titles.

However, they are 0-for-2 in World Series tries and Sparky thinks that's about to change. The Reds lost the postseason classic to Baltimore in 1970 and Oakland in 1972.

Cincinnati didn't survive the NL playoffs with the Mets last year. Anderson though thinks the Reds' main 1973 weakness of balance has been solved in offseason trades.

"The Mets killed us with their left-handers. We shamed ourselves in the playoffs," said Anderson Wednesday night during the Reds' winter caravan covering four states in five days.

The Reds shipped pitcher Ross Grimsley for right-handed hitting outfielder Merv Rettenmund from Baltimore. They dealt the controversial Bobby Tolan to San Diego

for righthander Clay Kirby.

Rettenmund and Kirby, contends Anderson, will solve Cincinnati's balance this year.

"I told Rettenmund I would put him in center field and it was up to him to win the job," the Reds skipper said.

If he flunks, Rettenmund will alternate in right field with rookie Ken Griffey, who hit .327 at Indianapolis last year. Cesar Geronimo and George Foster would split the job in center.

"Kirby gives us a two-two balance in our starting pitchers. Last year we had three lefties in the rotation," Anderson reminded.

Kirby and Jack Billingham, who won 19 games last season, are the right-handers with the southpaws being Fred Norman and Don Gullett.

Anderson said Gary Nolan and Roger Nelson, saddled with injuries last year, will have to win back their pitching jobs.

The Cincinnati manager said shortstop Dave Concepcion, who broke a leg in midseason last summer, is 80 to 85 per cent recovered. "I expect him to be 100 per cent by the end of spring training," Anderson said.

Anderson forecasts a big comeback for all-star catcher John Bench, who hit .253, homered 25 times and knocked in 104 runs in 1973.

"For John, that was an off year," his manager said. "I'm betting we have the MVP again." Cincinnati left fielder Pete Rose won the MVP honor last season.

Although he terms this his best Reds club, Anderson still feels 92 to 95 victories will win the NL West. "San Diego is much better and so is Atlanta," he said.

Ray Kroc To Buy San Diego Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Maybe they'll have to rename Willie McCovey "Big Mac."

Which is another way of saying the San Diego Padres likely will be playing this season under the sole ownership of Ray Kroc, who made his fortune as founder and chairman of the McDonald's hamburger chain.

The 71-year-old Chicago millionaire confirmed Wednesday night he has agreed to buy the team from C. Arnholt Smith for a price in the neighborhood of $10 million.

Kroc said he expected to pay the money today and announce that the sale was "99 per cent complete" at a news conference this afternoon. And he added he will keep the Padres in San Diego permanently.

"I'm thinking of nothing but San Diego," he said in an interview. "I bought this team to have fun. If I was going to make an investment to make money I sure as hell wouldn't buy the Padres."

"But I think we will eventually make money, and in two more years we will have a contender."

He said he expected agreement with the city of San Diego on a stadium lease today and approval by the National League in about a week.

The financially troubled Smith tried twice last year to sell the Padres, once to a group led by racetrack owner Marjorie Everett, who wanted to keep the team here, and once to market chain owner Joseph Danzansky, who was trying to bring baseball back to Washington, D.C.

But club owners rejected the Everett group, and Danzansky has had trouble arranging to cover damages from two suits by the city of San Diego, one for breach of the stadium lease and the other charging antitrust violations.

Logan Elm Wrestlers Beat Madison Plains, 52-18

The Logan Elm High School wrestling team defeated visiting Madison Plains 52-18 Wednesday, winning all but three matches.

The Braves won the first match by forfeit when Madison Plains had no 98-pounder to pit against John Scanlon. The 105-pound class went to Madison Plains' David Peart who pinned Dennis Redman in the first period.

Gary Hall, LE's 112-pounder, won by forfeit. In the 119-pound class, Danny Styles of LE pinned Mike Davison in the third period.

Mark Fouch added the 126-pound class to the Braves' side of the ledger pinning Charles Tindel in the second period.

David Hulse of Logan Elm wasted no time in pinning Gene Nelson in 1:51 of the first period. Don Grate decisioned Keith Cordle 7-0 to win the 138-pound class for Logan Elm. In the 145-pound class Don Maxson won 11-0 over Ben Rainsberger.

Bill Benner pinned Karl Buck in the third period to take the 155-pound class for the Braves. Dale Reynolds of the Braves pinned Jeff Minner in the 167-pound class. Monte Woods of Logan Elm and Dan Sony of Madison Plains were headed for a 0-0 draw when Sony finally managed to pin Woods with 53 seconds to go in the third period of the 175-pound class.

Brian Herron was awarded a point

just before the match ended as he edged Tim Bierbaugh of Madison Plains, 7-6. In the heavyweight, Tom Shaw of Logan Elm was pinned by Mike Miller in the first period. The next competition for LE is at the Richmond North Union Tournament beginning 11 a.m. Saturday.

Congress Backing Energy Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears ready to take up promptly President Nixon's request to reduce tax breaks available to U.S. oil companies on their overseas production.

In his energy message Wednesday, Nixon cited two such breaks but not a third.

He asked Congress to eliminate the 22 per cent depletion allowance on foreign production and to cut the foreign tax credit on such business. The credit is the amount of foreign tax they can subtract from their U.S. levies.

Some members of Congress say they also want to eliminate another tax benefit used by the oil firms.

This is the so-called intangibles — the right to deduct in one year all their drilling expenses on a successful well.

Nixon also asked the legislators to ease clean air rules and announced he would budget $1.8 billion for energy research in the next year.

He ordered a tenfold increase in offshore oil leasing for petroleum development and said there would be studies of additional oil and gas pipelines from northern Alaska.

The President repeated earlier requests for mandatory labeling of automobiles and major appliances, to show how efficiently they use energy.

Claim Exxon Bowed To Saudi Demands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exxon, the nation's largest oil company, last fall cut off supplies of certain Arab oil products to U.S. military forces, says Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Jackson, chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, indicated Wednesday that the cutoff may have come in response to orders issued by the Saudi Arabian government.

He cited a Dec. 1 article in Business Week, which quoted a confidential wire sent from Exxon headquarters in New York to the company's senior representatives in Europe. The wire described a Nov. 4 meeting at which American oil companies drilling for oil in Saudi Arabia "were ordered to cut off supply of products derived from Saudi oil to U.S. forces stationed around the world."

According to Business Week, the Exxon wire also said that Saudi Arabia had warned it would retaliate against any breach in the cutoff. The retaliation would consist of extension of the oil embargo already ordered against the United States to some foreign operations of the company.

Exxon sent out the cutoff order on Nov. 5, one day after the meeting in Jiddah, Saudi Arabia, which also involved representatives of Standard Oil of California, Mobil and Texaco, the magazine said.

Legally Blind Man Beats Off Holdup Attempt

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A 30-year-old man who is legally blind beat off two men who allegedly shot and kicked him and tried to take money from the refreshment stand he operates.

Police said the would-be robbers fled without any money after Paul Bunn kicked and thrashed at his assailants and finally set off an audible alarm Wednesday.

Bunn also wrestled a gun away from one of the men and turned it over to police.

Police are seeking the men, based on a description given by Bunn, who has some vision.

Relief Work Plan Said Going Well

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's welfare director said Wednesday that 3,514 persons are working in 53 programs to provide relief work as an alternative to public assistance.

Charles W. Bates said such programs exist in all but 18 Ohio counties. He said efforts will be made to begin such programs in counties which do not have them.

Most of the jobs are janitorial or maintenance work for local government, he said.

Deny Guardsmen Were In Danger

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two of the Ohio National Guard troops on the Kent State University campus during the 1970 shootings told a federal grand jury Wednesday they did not believe their lives were in danger when guardsmen opened fire on students.

Both said they were not among those who fired.

Dale Antram, 29, of Akron, said he told the 23-member jury the guardsmen were in "great fear" before the gunfire began that killed four students and wounded nine during an antiwar demonstration May 4, 1970.

Sgt. Jeffrey L. Jones, 23, a Wooster factory worker, said he told the jurors he didn't think "my life was in immediate danger, but there was a possibility of being hit by rocks" thrown by students.

"I was hit by a few myself," he told newsmen. He said he wasn't injured significantly.

Antram and Jones were members of

Company A, 145th Infantry, one of the two units from which shots were fired.

The shootings ended four days of demonstrations on the Kent State campus.

Jones, still a member of Company A, said he was asked whether guardsmen had run out of tear gas before the shots were fired.

"I assume they had because they weren't shooting any (gas)," he said he replied.

He said he told the jury in response to other questions that he did not know of any conspiracy among guardsmen to shoot students and that to his knowledge the guardsmen did not get together later to make up a story about what happened.

A witness told the jury early in its investigation, which began Dec. 18, he believed the shootings either involved possible collusion on the part of the guardsmen or were triggered by a spontaneous incident. He said there was no evidence that self-defense was involved.

Jones said he told the jury that about 40 to 50 students were moving toward guardsmen from a distance of 20 to 30 yards, throwing rocks as they advanced. He said he was five to 10 feet behind the main line of guardsmen who were shooting.

Gulf States Hit By Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms rolled across the Gulf States and rain splashed into the Pacific Northwest today but most of the nation enjoyed fair weather and seasonal temperatures.

Snow and thundershowers hit areas from eastern Texas to Georgia, where heavy thunderstorms erupted before dawn. Atlanta had more than an inch of rain, and New Orleans had 2 inches.

Heavy-snow warnings were posted for west-central Texas, and travel advisories were issued for the mountains of southwestern Texas and eastern New Mexico.

Rain fell from Washington and northern Oregon to Montana. Snow dusted areas from the Dakotas to the upper Great Lakes and in northern New England.

Fair skies dominated California and points east through the central Plains. Santa Ana winds returned to Southern California with gusts expected to reach 50 miles per hour today.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 3 at Minot Air Force Base, N.D., to 76 at Key West, Fla.

Living Together OK With Students

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Most of the 300 students surveyed at Cornell University believed living with someone of the opposite sex without being married was an acceptable practice, a researcher says.

About one-third of those surveyed admitted sharing a bedroom with a student of the opposite sex, said Prof. Eleanor Macklin of Cornell's State College of Human Ecology.

Cohabitation was defined as "sharing a bedroom (and/or a bed) with someone of the opposite sex four or more nights a week for three or more consecutive months."

Only 7 per cent of the students who responded to a 32-page questionnaire said they would not live with someone of the opposite sex given the proper partner.

"Contrary to much older generation opinion, spending the night together, even in the same bed, need not imply a full sexual relationship," she said.

Congress Backing Energy Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears ready to take up promptly President Nixon's request to reduce tax breaks available to U.S. oil companies on their overseas production.

In his energy message Wednesday, Nixon cited two such breaks but not a third.

He asked Congress to eliminate the 22 per cent depletion allowance on foreign production and to cut the foreign tax credit on such business. The credit is the amount of foreign tax they can subtract from their U.S. levies.

Some members of Congress say they also want to eliminate another tax benefit used by the oil firms.

This is the so-called intangibles — the right to deduct in one year all their drilling expenses on a successful well.

Nixon also asked the legislators to ease clean air rules and announced he would budget $1.8 billion for energy research in the next year.

He ordered a tenfold increase in offshore oil leasing for petroleum development and said there would be studies of additional oil and gas pipelines from northern Alaska.

The President repeated earlier requests for mandatory labeling of automobiles and major appliances, to show how efficiently they use energy.

Claim Exxon Bowed To Saudi Demands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exxon, the nation's largest oil company, last fall cut off supplies of certain Arab oil products to U.S. military forces, says Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Jackson, chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, indicated Wednesday that the cutoff may have come in response to orders issued by the Saudi Arabian government.

He cited a Dec. 1 article in Business Week, which quoted a confidential wire sent from Exxon headquarters in New York to the company's senior representatives in Europe. The wire described a Nov. 4 meeting at which American oil companies drilling for oil in Saudi Arabia "were ordered to cut off supply of products derived from Saudi oil to U.S. forces stationed around the world."

According to Business Week, the Exxon wire also said that Saudi Arabia had warned it would retaliate against any breach in the cutoff. The retaliation would consist of extension of the oil embargo already ordered against the United States to some foreign operations of the company.

Exxon sent out the cutoff order on Nov. 5, one day after the meeting in Jiddah, Saudi Arabia, which also involved representatives of Standard Oil of California, Mobil and Texaco, the magazine said.

Legally Blind Man Beats Off Holdup Attempt

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A 30-year-old man who is legally blind beat off two men who allegedly shot and kicked him and tried to take money from the refreshment stand he operates.

Police said the would-be robbers fled without any money after Paul Bunn kicked and thrashed at his assailants and finally set off an audible alarm Wednesday.

Bunn also wrestled a gun away from one of the men and turned it over to police.

Police are seeking the men, based on a description given by Bunn, who has some vision.

Relief Work Plan Said Going Well

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's welfare director said Wednesday that 3,514 persons are working in 53 programs to provide relief work as an alternative to public assistance.

Charles W. Bates said such programs exist in all but 18 Ohio counties. He said efforts will be made to begin such programs in counties which do not have them.

Most of the jobs are janitorial or maintenance work for local government, he said.

Deny Guardsmen Were In Danger

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two of the Ohio National Guard troops on the Kent State University campus during the 1970 shootings told a federal grand jury Wednesday they did not believe their lives were in danger when guardsmen opened fire on students.

Both said they were not among those who fired.

Dale Antram, 29, of Akron, said he told the 23 - member jury the guardsmen were in "great fear" before the gunfire began that killed four students and wounded nine during an antiwar demonstration May 4, 1970.

Sgt. Jeffrey L. Jones, 23, a Wooster factory worker, said he told the jurors he didn't think "my life was in immediate danger, but there was a possibility of being hit by rocks" thrown by students.

"I was hit by a few myself," he told newsmen. He said he wasn't injured significantly.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms rolled across the Gulf States and rain splashed into the Pacific Northwest today but most of the nation enjoyed fair weather and seasonal temperatures.

Snow and thundershowers hit areas from eastern Texas to Georgia, where heavy thunderstorms erupted before dawn. Atlanta had more than an inch of rain, and New Orleans had 2 inches.

Heavy-snow warnings were posted for west-central Texas, and travel advisories were issued for the mountains of southwestern Texas and eastern New Mexico.

Rain fell from Washington and northern Oregon to Montana. Snow dusted areas from the Dakotas to the upper Great Lakes and in northern New England.

Fair skies dominated California and points east through the central Plains. Santa Ana winds returned to Southern California with gusts expected to reach 50 miles per hour today.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 3 at Minot Air Force Base, N.D., to 76 at Key West, Fla.

Company A, 145th Infantry, one of the two units from which shots were fired.

The shootings ended four days of demonstrations on the Kent State campus.

Jones, still a member of Company A, said he was asked whether guardsmen had run out of tear gas before the shots were fired.

"I assume they had because they weren't shooting any (gas)," he said he replied.

He said he told the jury in response to other questions that he did not know of any conspiracy among guardsmen to shoot students and that to his knowledge the guardsmen did not get together later to make up a story about what happened.

A witness told the jury early in its investigation, which began Dec. 18, he believed the shootings either involved possible collusion on the part of the guardsmen or were triggered by a spontaneous incident. He said there was no evidence that self-defense was involved.

Jones said he told the jury that about 40 to 50 students were moving toward guardsmen from a distance of 20 to 30 yards, throwing rocks as they advanced. He said he was five to 10 feet behind the main line of guardsmen who were shooting.

Ailing Gyro Grows Worse

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Mission Control hopes to nurse an ailing gyroscope in the Skylab space station a little longer, but space officials doubt the stabilizing device will recover.

"It's slowly but surely caving in," Flight Director Neil Hutchinson said Wednesday. "It's been in continuous distress throughout the day. Personally, I don't think it will recover."

Even if it failed, Skylab 3 astronauts could remain aloft the final 15 days of the 84-day mission. But scientific experiments would be cut back because spacecraft maneuvers depend on the control device.

Astronauts Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson have kept track of the problem but have not expressed concern about it.

The spacemen have had to shift their work schedules because the fluctuating gyroscope has forced cancellation of earth resources surveys the last two days. Such surveys require maneuvering the space station, which would put additional stress on the gyro.

Flood Act Gains Praise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Passage of the federal Flood Disaster Protection Act will enhance Ohio's efforts to protect communities from flooding, Gov. John J. Gilligan said Wednesday.

The governor said his administration supported the bill, which was signed by President Nixon Dec. 31.

The new law increases the coverage available to businesses and other nonresidences for flood protection from $30,000 to $100,000. It also doubles the coverage available to homeowners.

But the coverage is available only in communities which have met certain federal standards. Gilligan said only 52 communities and five counties in the state are eligible.

The five counties are Hamilton, Franklin, Mahoning, Ottawa and Trumbull.

Gilligan said the state Department of Natural Resources will assist other communities and counties in meeting federal standards.

2 Persons Killed In Columbus Crash

Woodcock Rips Cuts In Program

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said Wednesday the Nixon administration is ignoring growing unemployment in cutting funds to state employment agencies.

His 1.4 million-member union may be the most vulnerable to the effects of the energy crisis. So far, reduced demand for automobiles has forced the indefinite layoff of 60,000 auto workers.

Woodcock criticized the administration for slashing $1.6 million from the budget of the Michigan Employment Security Commission. The Ohio Bureau of Employment Services budget was reduced by $1.4 million.

The union president charged the administration "has put its head in the sand like an ostrich, and is pretending there is no unemployment crisis."

Ohio and Michigan have been among the hardest hit in layoffs by the Big Three automakers and their satellite suppliers.

The money cut by the government is drastically needed to administer unemployment compensation, Woodcock said.

"Chaos will result in the filing and processing of unemployment claims unless the federal government reacts swiftly to help," the union leader said.

The cutback in federal funds was announced last week.

British Coal Miners Study Full Walkout

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of Britain's 280,000 coal miners are recommending today that their men stop all production with a strike for higher pay that could bring British industry to a halt this spring.

The general secretary of the miners' union, Lawrence Daly, told newsmen he and the union's president and vice president would recommend a strike vote at a meeting today of the executive board of the National Union of Mineworkers.

The 27-man executive was expected to approve the recommendation and order the continuation, meanwhile, of the 11-week-old slowdown in the mines that has cut production 40 per cent.

It will take about two weeks to organize a strike vote. Union President Joe Gormley estimates that more than 70 per cent of the men favor a walkout, 15 per cent more than are needed.

The demands for a strike came after Prime Minister Edward Heath told Parliament on Tuesday he would not raise his anti-inflation ceiling on wage increases to meet the miners' demands. He rejected an offer by the Trades Union Congress to check the wage demands of other unions if the miners were given what they are asking.

Meanwhile, leading members of Heath's Conservative party were talking less and less about the possibility that their leader would take his case to the voters by calling a general election next month.

A poll in today's Times of London by the Opinion Research Center showed 43 per cent of those questioned last weekend would vote Labor to 40 per cent Conservative and 15 per cent Liberal. The week before the Conservatives led the Laborites 41 per cent to 37.

State Farmers Battle Hog Virus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio hog growers, their herds threatened by a virus outbreak, count on the traditional January thaw to reduce their problem.

Warmer weather may entice disease-carrying birds to spread out instead of bunching in the hog feeding lots, they hope.

The virus, transmissible gastroenteritis or TGE, has hit hundreds of Ohio hogs in the last month.

"We don't have an exact count of cases," said Dr. Harry E. Goldstein, state animal industry chief. "We do know that we have had more cases brought into the state laboratories during the last three or four weeks than in the last four or five years."

TGE, believed to be carried from farm to farm by flocks of starlings, means almost certain death for young pigs, Goldstein said.

"When TGE hits, the mortality rate runs to 90 to 95 per cent among young pigs," he said. "It's even worse than the Hong Kong flu."

"Pig farmers not hit by it should not permit strangers onto their lots and should try to keep large flocks of birds away."

The concern expressed over the current outbreak stems from the history of the virus. It runs in six-year cycles. "Hogs who have had it build up immunity and pass along the immunity to the next generation," said Goldstein. The immunity weakens after five to six years.

Last major outbreak of TGE came in 1958. First such outbreak in Ohio came in 1946 and a second in 1953. This is the sixth year after the last major outbreak.

Livestock producers in Fayette, Clark and Madison counties reported a rapid increase in the number of cases in their areas.

Gary Herron, of Producers Livestock in Washington Court House said many farmers in Clinton, Highland and Fayette counties reported TGE among their litters. Clinton, Highland and Fayette are the three largest counties among pig producers in Ohio.

John P. Gruber, Fayette County extension agent said, "I've talked to some farmers who have lost 100 baby pigs or more by the disease."

One Madison County farmer said he

Ohio's hog herd already is 2 per cent below 1972 at an estimated 2.27 million and a 1974 virus outbreak would be more costly than previous outbreaks.

Average value of a 1974 hog stands as $54 compared to $39.50 a year ago.

See Baling Wire Need By Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has asked the Cost of Living Council to let the price of baling wire rise so that manufacturers will be encouraged to boost production in time for the 1974 haying season.

"At controlled price levels manufacturers' margins are so low that they are not producing," Butz said Wednesday in a statement. "The Cost of Living Council reports it has this situation under current review."

Baling wire and twine ties were in short supply last year, and experts say the crunch will be worse in 1974 unless domestic producers are encouraged to turn out more.

For many years nearly all the baling wire and twine has been imported. But Japan, once a major source of wire, has curtailed production sharply and domestic manufacturers have not filled the gap.

About 90 per cent of the nation's hay crop is baled. And about four-fifths of that is twine-tied, representing mostly hay that is fed to livestock on farms and ranches where it is produced.

But wire ties are needed for bales shipped long distances, and the short supply has created many problems and higher costs.

A recent estimate by the Economic Research Service in the United States Department of Agriculture says costs of twine alone in 1974 are expected to double, from around $8.96 per 40-pound bale of twine to as much as $18 per unit.

One reason for the twine scarcity was a reduction in fiber crops because of the 1971-72 drought in many East Africa countries which produce sisal and other fibers. Supplies from Mexico, Portugal and Brazil have not been able to keep pace with demand.

Producer groups, including the American National Cattlemen's Association, would like the Cost of Living Council to allow price exceptions for wire so that manufacturers will have larger operating margins and begin production.

Baled hay, in terms of farm value, was the fourth most valuable U.S. field crop last year. Department analysts say it was worth $4.8 billion, up from $3.7 billion in 1972.

Only corn at $13.3 billion, soybeans at $8.8 billion and wheat at $6.5 billion were valued higher in 1973.

Derby News

MRS. GEORGIA SWEET, 896-2462

Greeters at the Derby United Methodist Church on Jan. 20 were Mr. and Mrs. Dick McPherson. Greeters on Jan. 27 will be Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Musselman.

This community extends its sympathy to the family of John Downs, 85, Route 3, Orient, who passed away on Jan. 4. Mr. Downs was quite well

Ailing Gyro Grows Worse

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Mission Control hopes to nurse an ailing gyroscope in the Skylab space station a little longer, but space officials doubt the stabilizing device will recover.

"It's slowly but surely caving in," Flight Director Neil Hutchinson said Wednesday. "It's been in continuous distress throughout the day. Personally, I don't think it will recover."

Even if it failed, Skylab 3 astronauts could remain aloft the final 15 days of the 84-day mission. But scientific experiments would be cut back because spacecraft maneuvers depend on the control device.

Astronauts Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson have kept track of the problem but have not expressed concern about it.

The spacemen have had to shift their work schedules because the fluctuating gyroscope has forced cancellation of earth resources surveys the last two days. Such surveys require maneuvering the space station, which would put additional stress on the gyro.

Flood Act Gains Praise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Passage of the federal Flood Disaster Protection Act will enhance Ohio's efforts to protect communities from flooding, Gov. John J. Gilligan said Wednesday.

The governor said his administration supported the bill, which was signed by President Nixon Dec. 31.

The new law increases the coverage available to businesses and other nonresidences for flood protection from $30,000 to $100,000. It also doubles the coverage available to homeowners.

But the coverage is available only in communities which have met certain federal standards. Gilligan said only 52 communities and five counties in the state are eligible.

The five counties are Hamilton, Franklin, Mahoning, Ottawa and Trumbull.

Gilligan said the state Department of Natural Resources will assist other communities and counties in meeting federal standards.

2 Persons Killed In Columbus Crash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two persons were killed and another was seriously injured in a three-car smashup on Columbus, east side late Wednesday.

The dead were identified as Robert Watterman, 26, and Raymond Wheeland, 20, both of Columbus.

Residents were sorry to hear of the death of Walter Garland, 60, Harrisburg, on Jan. 7. We extend the sympathy of the community to the family.

On Jan. 20, visitors at the Archie Sweet home were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Legg Sr. and Rick Legg of Columbus.

Tuesday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sweet were Mrs. Sue Mason and son Kenneth Patrick of Mt. Sterling.

The Helping Hands group still meets at the Derby United Methodist Church each Monday for a worthy cause. They make quilts or comforters for rest home patients in this area and also make cancer pads. They collect and distribute used clothing which is donated by area residents to the needy and unfortunate.

No one is immune from disaster, so please, when doing your spring (lovely word) cleaning or renovating remember someone may need the usable discards.

Also, please remember to save your grocery slips from Tommy's Market. They can help toward getting storm windows and doors at the church.

The members of the Men In Missions group at the Southwest Community Church of the Nazarene attended the Men's Prayer Fellowship at the Grove City Church of the Nazarene on Saturday morning. Dr. Paul Orjala, Professor of Missions at the Kansas City Nazarene Seminary, was the guest speaker.

The Southwest Community Church of the Nazarene has been enrolled in the "Nazarene in Action" program for total evangelism. The Rev. Chennault and five key laymen will be trained in five vital areas over the next two years, with the purpose of bringing greater impact upon the community.

Woodcock Rips Cuts In Program

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said Wednesday the Nixon administration is ignoring growing unemployment in cutting funds to state employment agencies.

His 1.4 million-member union may be the most vulnerable to the effects of the energy crisis. So far, reduced demand for automobiles has forced the indefinite layoff of 60,000 auto workers.

Woodcock criticized the administration for slashing $1.6 million from the budget of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The Ohio Bureau of Employment Services budget was reduced by $1.4 million.

The union president charged the administration "has put its head in the sand like an ostrich, and is pretending there is no unemployment crisis."

Ohio and Michigan have been among the hardest hit in layoffs by the Big Three automakers and their satellite suppliers.

The money cut by the government is drastically needed to administer unemployment compensation, Woodcock said.

"Chaos will result in the filing and processing of unemployment claims unless the federal government reacts swiftly to help," the union leader said.

The cutback in federal funds was announced last week.

British Coal Miners Study Full Walkout

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of Britain's 280,000 coal miners are recommending today that their men stop all production with a strike for higher pay that could bring British industry to a halt this spring.

The general secretary of the miners' union, Lawrence Daly, told newsmen he and the union's president and vice president would recommend a strike vote at a meeting today of the executive board of the National Union of Mineworkers.

The 27-man executive was expected to approve the recommendation and order the continuation, meanwhile, of the 11-week-old slowdown in the mines that has cut production 40 per cent.

It will take about two weeks to organize a strike vote. Union President Joe Gormley estimates that more than 70 per cent of the men favor a walkout, 15 per cent more than are needed.

The demands for a strike came after Prime Minister Edward Heath told Parliament on Tuesday he would not raise his anti-inflation ceiling on wage increases to meet the miners' demands. He rejected an offer by the Trades Union Congress to check the wage demands of other unions if the miners were given what they are asking.

Meanwhile, leading members of Heath's Conservative party were talking less and less about the possibility that their leader would take his case to the voters by calling a general election next month.

A poll in today's Times of London by the Opinion Research Center showed 43 per cent of those questioned last weekend would vote Labor to 40 per cent Conservative and 15 per cent Liberal. The week before the Conservatives led the Laborites 41 per cent to 37.

State Farmers Battle Hog Virus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio hog growers, their herds threatened by a virus outbreak, count on the traditional January thaw to reduce their problem.

Warmer weather may entice disease-carrying birds to spread out instead of bunching in the hog feeding lots, they hope.

The virus, transmissible gastroenteritis or TGE, has hit hundreds of Ohio hogs in the last month.

"We don't have an exact count of cases," said Dr. Harry E. Goldstein, state animal industry chief. "We do know that we have had more cases brought into the state laboratories during the last three or four weeks than in the last four or five years."

TGE, believed to be carried from farm to farm by flocks of starlings, means almost certain death for young pigs, Goldstein said.

"When TGE hits, the mortality rate runs to 90 to 95 per cent among young pigs," he said. "It's even worse than the Hong Kong flu."

"Pig farmers not hit by it should not permit strangers onto their lots and should try to keep large flocks of birds away."

The concern expressed over the current outbreak stems from the history of the virus. It runs in six-year cycles. "Hogs who have had it build up immunity and pass along the immunity to the next generation," said Goldstein. The immunity weakens after five to six years.

Last major outbreak of TGE came in 1958. First such outbreak in Ohio came in 1946 and a second in 1953. This is the sixth year after the last major outbreak.

Livestock producers in Fayette, Clark and Madison counties reported a rapid increase in the number of cases in their areas.

Gary Herron, of Producers Livestock in Washington Court House said many farmers in Clinton, Highland and Fayette counties reported TGE among their litters. Clinton, Highland and Fayette are the three largest counties among pig producers in Ohio.

John P. Gruber, Fayette County extension agent said, "I've talked to some farmers who have lost 100 baby pigs or more by the disease."

One Madison County farmer said he found a dozen dead pigs among his litters and most of his other young pigs showed TGE signs.

Ohio's hog herd already is 2 per cent below 1972 at an estimated 2.27 million and a 1974 virus outbreak would be more costly than previous outbreaks. Average value of a 1974 hog stands as $54 compared to $39.50 a year ago.

See Baling Wire Need By Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has asked the Cost of Living Council to let the price of baling wire rise so that manufacturers will be encouraged to boost production in time for the 1974 haying season.

"At controlled price levels manufacturers' margins are so low that they are not producing," Butz said Wednesday in a statement. "The Cost of Living Council reports it has this situation under current review."

Baling wire and twine ties were in short supply last year, and experts say the crunch will be worse in 1974 unless domestic producers are encouraged to turn out more.

For many years nearly all the baling wire and twine has been imported. But Japan, once a major source of wire, has curtailed production sharply and domestic manufacturers have not filled the gap.

About 90 per cent of the nation's hay crop is baled. And about four-fifths of that is twine-tied, representing mostly hay that is fed to livestock on farms and ranches where it is produced.

But wire ties are needed for bales shipped long distances, and the short supply has created many problems and higher costs.

A recent estimate by the Economic Research Service in the United States Department of Agriculture says costs of twine alone in 1974 are expected to double, from around $8.96 per 40-pound bale of twine to as much as $18 per unit.

One reason for the twine scarcity was a reduction in fiber crops because of the 1971-72 drought in many East Africa countries which produce sisal and other fibers. Supplies from Mexico, Portugal and Brazil have not been able to keep pace with demand.

Producer groups, including the American National Cattlemen's Association, would like the Cost of Living Council to allow price exceptions for wire so that manufacturers will have larger operating margins and begin production.

Baled hay, in terms of farm value, was the fourth most valuable U.S. field crop last year. Department analysts say it was worth $4.8 billion, up from $3.7 billion in 1972.

Only corn at $13.3 billion, soybeans at $8.8 billion and wheat at $6.5 billion were valued higher in 1973.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A thorough reappraisal of recent weeks can be the basis for highly improved future planning. Don't stymie yourself through outmoded ideas, methods. Be progressive.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Trends mixed. Bring order out of uncertainty through clear, concise analysis and like action. Emphasize system and optimism.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You may run into some opposition now. But you need not let it disturb your equilibrium or your sense of humor. You usually enjoy outwitting opposing forces.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Evolve a system of checks and balances in rating past efforts. Some changes are in the making, so be sagacious in planning to meet them.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Shy away from propositions of nebulous or dubious quality. An "impatient" group may be anxious to move ahead, but HOW and WHEN must be YOUR primary consideration.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Hold to a well-ordered course. Some storm clouds are brewing, but the ingenious Virgoan will weather them smartly. Keep emotions under stern control.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You can do much with this day if you make the most of your talents and know-how. Emphasize your innate courage and common sense.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): A broad new concept of your job is in the making, which you should strive to understand. Contact with people who have bright, workable ideas will boost your morale.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23): Don't coast downhill witlessly, no matter how trying the situation in certain areas. Your response to helpful suggestions and willingness to systemize important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20): This day may be described as a duel between promise and performance. The effort expended and the direction taken will be the deciding factors. Think before acting!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): The cool-headed approach in all matters will bring better returns than the emotional one. Your fine skills and talents are due for recognition soon.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A fruitful day indicated, but your returns may not be quite as great as you expected. Remain composed and ready to shift to a lower gear in expectations—for the present, at least!

YOU BORN TODAY are extremely ambitious and do not mind how difficult your road to progress as long as you feel you are really achieving but, if hampered in your efforts in any way, you really "go off the deep end," throw caution to the winds and drop whatever you are doing, regardless of consequences. You MUST avoid such impulsiveness, learn self-mastery and self-discipline or you could lose out on some very fine opportunities. Generosity, strong-mindedness, idealism and love of justice are your outstanding characteristics. You are also intuitive, highly progressive and a born leader; could make a great success in music or literature. Birthdate of: Somerset Maugham, Brit. author.

18-Year-Olds To Lay Bets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Racing Commission unanimously has given 18-year-olds the right to bet at state horse tracks for the first time in history this year.

But at least one commissioner, Charles Schwenker, has some misgivings about the law effective in Ohio March 1, six days ahead of Thistledown's opener.

"Personally, I'm not in favor of it although I went along with it," said Schwenker, who chaired the meeting in the absence of the ill chairman, Charles Ginsberg.

"Racing is suspect now. A lot of the public doesn't go along with betting," continued Schwenker, a Columbus lawyer and former commission chairman.

Larry Wilson To Coach Utah?

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Larry Wilson, former safety for the St. Louis Cardinals, was expected to be named head football coach today at the University of Utah.

The Deseret News reported Wednesday that an announcement on a coach to succeed Bill Meek is expected after a decision by university President David P. Gardner.

Meek announced his resignation several weeks ago and the school completed interviews of prospects early this week.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Show No. 2 of NBC's new "Music Country U.S.A." series is on tonight. But if it's like last week's premiere show, the series should be retitled "Music Country Lip-Sync U.S.A."

The lip-sync, if you've never heard of it, is an ancient television dodge by which singers don't actually sing. They just silently mouth the words of songs — usually their latest hit — they've recorded earlier in a studio.

It's occasionally justified, though I'd say only when both new material and technical considerations make it necessary.

But doing a hit record lip-sync on what is billed as a different kind of television musical is akin to getting people to buy pumpkin farms, then canceling Halloween. It's a flimflam.

Only Jerry Reed, the host of the first show, and singer-guitarist Johnny Russell seemed to have the honesty to pass up the safety of the lip-sync and take their chances as the videotape rolled.

True, Reed was singing to previously recorded background arrangements, but at least he wasn't relying on the smoother performances you get when you do the whole thing in a studio.

Nashville sound now is national.

Nobody'd doubt that, but you don't need Ray Stevens all bundled up, playing piano with gloves on and doing his thing in the middle of Wall Street during a December snowstorm to prove the point.

In his effort to emphasize the wide appeal of country music, executive producer Greg Garrison taped parts of the show in such un-Southern locales as Indiana, Washington, D.C., the Staten Island ferry, Hidden Valley and Big Sur, Calif., and the High Sierra.

All visually well and good, but I think he's losing a lot of the relaxed atmosphere of country music by not staying below the Mason-Dixon line, where all but one of the 15 artists on last week's show customarily record.

The exception was Wayne Newton. And he ain't country. Even with its faults, though, the show has one king-size plus going for it: It at least airs some good, tastefully arranged songs many of us might miss if we live in areas where screamers and the Big Beat rule the airwaves.

Vancouver Island's most significant animal is the Roosevelt elk, the largest terrestrial species.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Trends mixed. Bring order out of uncertainty through clear, concise analysis and like action. Emphasize system and optimism.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You may run into some opposition now. But you need not let it disturb your equilibrium or your sense of humor. You usually enjoy outwitting opposing forces.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Evolve a system of checks and balances in rating past efforts. Some changes are in the making, so be sagacious in planning to meet them.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Shy away from propositions of nebulous or dubious quality. An "impatient" group may be anxious to move ahead, but HOW and WHEN must be YOUR primary consideration.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Hold to a well-ordered course. Some storm clouds are brewing, but the ingenious Virgoan will weather them smartly. Keep emotions under stern control.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You can do much with this day if you make the most of your talents and know-how. Emphasize your innate courage and common sense.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): A broad new concept of your job is in the making, which you should strive to understand. Contact with people who have bright, workable ideas will boost your morale.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 22): Don't coast downhill wittlessly, no matter how trying the situation in certain areas. Your response to helpful suggestions and willingness to systemize important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20): This day may be described as a duel between promise and performance. The effort expended and the direction taken will be the deciding factors. Think before acting!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): The cool-headed approach in all matters will bring better returns than the emotional one. Your fine skills and talents are due for recognition soon.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A fruitful day indicated, but your returns may not be quite as great as you expected. Remain composed and ready to shift to a lower gear in expectations—for the present, at least!

YOU BORN TODAY are extremely ambitious and do not mind how difficult your road to progress as long as you feel you are really achieving but, if hampered in your efforts in any way, you really "go off the deep end," throw caution to the winds and drop whatever you are doing, regardless of consequences. You MUST avoid such impulsiveness, learn self-mastery and self-discipline or you could lose out on some very fine opportunities. Generosity, strong-mindedness, idealism and love of justice are your outstanding characteristics. You are also intuitive, highly progressive and a born leader; could make a great success in music or literature. Birthdate of: Somerset Maugham, Brit. author.

18-Year-Olds To Lay Bets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Racing Commission unanimously has given 18-year-olds the right to bet at state horse tracks for the first time in history this year.

But at least one commissioner, Charles Schwenker, has some misgivings about the law effective in Ohio March 1, six days ahead of Thistledown's opener.

"Personally, I'm not in favor of it although I went along with it," said Schwenker, who chaired the meeting in the absence of the ill chairman, Charles Ginsberg.

"Racing is suspect now. A lot of the public doesn't go along with betting," continued Schwenker, a Columbus lawyer and former commission chairman.

Larry Wilson To Coach Utah?

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Larry Wilson, former safety for the St. Louis Cardinals, was expected to be named head football coach today at the University of Utah.

The Deseret News reported Wednesday that an announcement on a coach to succeed Bill Meek is expected after a decision by university President David P. Gardner. Meek announced his resignation several weeks ago and the school completed interviews of prospects early this week.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Show No. 2 of NBC's new "Music Country U.S.A." series is on tonight. But if it's like last week's premiere show, the series should be retitled "Music Country Lip-Sync U.S.A."

The lip-sync, if you've never heard of it, is an ancient television dodge by which singers don't actually sing. They just silently mouth the words of songs — usually their latest hit — they've recorded earlier in a studio.

It's occasionally justified, though I'd say only when both new material and technical considerations make it necessary.

But doing a hit record lip-sync on what is billed as a different kind of television musical is akin to getting people to buy pumpkin farms, then canceling Halloween. It's a flimflam.

Only Jerry Reed, the host of the first show, and singer-guitarist Johnny Russell seemed to have the honesty to pass up the safety of the lip-sync and take their chances as the videotape rolled.

True, Reed was singing to previously recorded background arrangements, but at least he wasn't relying on the smoother performances you get when you do the whole thing in a studio.

The show's thesis is that the Nashville sound now is national.

Nobody'd doubt that, but you don't need Ray Stevens all bundled up, playing piano with gloves on and doing his thing in the middle of Wall Street during a December snowstorm to prove the point.

In his effort to emphasize the wide appeal of country music, executive producer Greg Garrison taped parts of the show in such Southern locales as Indiana, Washington, D.C., the Staten Island ferry, Hidden Valley and Big Sur, Calif., and the High Sierra.

All visually well and good, but I think he's losing a lot of the relaxed atmosphere of country music by not staying below the Mason-Dixon line, where all but one of the 15 artists on last week's show customarily record.

The exception was Wayne Newton. And he ain't country. Even with its faults, though, the show has one king-size plus going for it: It at least airs some good, tastefully arranged songs many of us might miss if we live in areas where screamers and the Big Beat rule the airwaves.

Vancouver Island's most significant animal is the Roosevelt elk, the largest terrestrial species.

Louisville Rips DaytonBy THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fourteenth-ranked Louisville took an early lead and coasted to an easy 90-72 victory over Dayton Wednesday night in Ohio college basketball.

"We weren't able to give them a game," lamented Dayton coach Don Donohue. "I had some hopes in the beginning of the second half, but they were just too good a club for us."

But a pleased Louisville coach Denny Crum said the Cardinals "put two good halves together for the first time in a long time, maybe for only the third time all year."

In other major games, Ohio University defeated Cleveland State 102-78, Miami edges Kent State 78-76 and Bowling Green fell to Western Michigan 69-60.

In Dayton, Louisville built up an early 15-point lead behind the shooting of Allen Murphy and Wesley Cox. The Cardinals carried a 44-32 lead to the locker room at intermission.

In the second half, the Flyers closed to within seven at one point when Allen Elijah sank two of his 14 game points. But the Cardinals then pulled away again, building a 19-point lead, and the Flyers never challenged again.

"We ran our offense as well and we went to the options well, taking advantage of the other team's weaknesses," Crum said. "Up until now we have not played well against non-conference opponents. Tonight was the change."

Coach Donohue said the next two games for Dayton "are absolute musts for us. But then we'll still be behind."

In Cleveland, Walter Luckett hit 24 points to lead the Ohio Bobcats to a 102-78 victory over Cleveland State in non-conference basketball.

The game was close at first, with Ohio leading 27-26 with 12 minutes remaining in the first half. Then the Bobcats exploded, outscoring Cleveland 22-4 in the next five minutes to pocket a comfortable 49-30 edge.

In Kalamazoo, Western Michigan pounded Bowling Green on the boards to pace its 69-60 Mid-American Conference basketball victory.

Also in the MAC, Miami of Ohio overcame a 14-point deficit to edge Kent State 78-76.

The Redskins trailed by 12 points at the half and didn't catch Kent until Dave Elmer's two free throws tied the score at 52-52 with 13:46 left to play.

Toledo defeated MAC foe Central Michigan 90-74.

In other games, it was Cincinnati over Drake 73-67, Wittenberg over Capital 66-63, Ohio Wesleyan defeated Otterbein 69-65, Findlay smashed Manchester 107-73, and Mount Union downed Marietta 92-72.

Allegheny defeated John Carroll 85-75, Case Western Reserve beat Washington and Jefferson 90-71, Steubenville defeated Youngstown State 47-34, Central State downed West Virginia State 66-55, Defiance trounced Wilmington 97-67, Malone downed Tiffin 76-63 and Urbana smashed Rio Grande 94-56.

Laurelville News

By MRS. HUGH POLING

332-5501

Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, Aaron and Beth Ann, were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Reid.

Robert Reid was a guest of the Rev. and Mrs. Lynn Summers and son on Wednesday.

Eleven members were present for the regular monthly meeting of the Laurelville Church of God Missionary Society. The meeting was held in the church basement.

Included in the regular business session of the meeting was the opening with prayer by the president, Margie Ebert. Secretary Carol Holbrook gave the minutes and the treasurer's report.

Thank you cards were read from folks who received fruit baskets at Christmas from the Society. Plans were made to make and sell noodles as a project for the Society. It was agreed by the members to serve the Church Sweetheart Banquet in February for the youth. Secret Pals were drawn for this year.

Margie Ebert read a letter from Martha Mathis concerning election of state officers for Southeastern Ohio Missionary Societies.

Devotions were given by Josephine Hardman. The topic was "Sanctification" and a poem entitled "The World's Bible" was read. The meeting was closed with prayer given by Bertha Wiggins.

Hostesses were Shirley Morens and Margie Ebert.

The Pleasant Valley Home Demonstration Club met Jan. 14 at the home of Mrs. Ramon Sowers. Assisting hostess was Mrs. Madeline Claypool. The meeting was opened by the president reading two poems by Helen Steiner Rice.

The Pledge to the Flag was given and old and new business discussed. Each member reported the sick calls she had made.

Delicious refreshments were served to Mrs. Doris Edwards, Mrs. Dal Van Curren, Mrs. Herman DeLong, Mrs. Jack Notestone, Mrs. Jack Lehman, Mrs. Earl DeLong, Mrs. Dick Karr and Mrs. Rudolph Ebert.

The Laurel Hills United Methodist Women met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Norman Thompson. Assistant hostess was Mrs. Norwood Jinks. Scripture lesson was "Call to Prayer and Self Denial" by Imogene McFadden. She also read scriptures from Micah 6:8 and Matthew 5:9.

Prayer was given by Mrs. Clayton Lutz. The members were dismissed with circle prayer. Lovely refreshments were served to 16 members and two guests.

Mr. and Mrs. John Karr and son Stacy entertained to a carry-in birthday supper on Jan. 15 in honor of Mrs. Karr's mother, Mrs. Johnny Van Fossen. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hunt, son Todd and daughter Vicki, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Van Fossen, son Brent and daughter

Urge State Health Care Company

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Legislative Service Commission committee recommended today a state-operated medical and hospital insurance company to provide health insurance for all Ohioans.

The report, released by Rep. George Mastics, R-3 Cleveland said the insurance plan should be competitive with Blue Cross and Blue Shield but not be a take over of those programs.

Gov. John J. Gilligan's Task Force on Health Care has recommended the state take over Blue Cross and Blue Shield programs.

The LSC committee also recommended establishment of a "health advocate general" within the Department of Health to investigate consumer complaints on health care.

It also suggested regulation of medical insurance companies, prohibiting them from investing excess income in profit-making ventures.

Mastics, chairman of the eight-member committee comprised of legislators, said excess income should be used instead for reduction of premiums or extension of coverage.

Oil Revenues To Rise Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Staggering price increases in petroleum are expected to raise the revenues of 11 leading oil exporting countries from $22.7 billion in 1973 to $85 billion this year, $100 billion in 1975 and $171 billion in 1980, World Bank President Robert S. McNamara says.

The countries to reap the extra money, according to the report, are: Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi, Qatar, Iraq, Iran, Algeria, Libya, Nigeria, Indonesia and Venezuela.

In a memorandum circulated among executive directors of the bank, McNamara said adjustments of the world economy to these higher prices dominate the economic outlook for 1974.

Louisville Rips Dayton

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fourteenth-ranked Louisville took an early lead and coasted to an easy 90-72 victory over Dayton Wednesday night in Ohio college basketball.

"We weren't able to give them a game," lamented Dayton coach Don Donoher. "I had some hopes in the beginning of the second half, but they were just too good a club for us."

But a pleased Louisville coach Denny Crum said the Cardinals "put two good halves together for the first time in a long time, maybe for only the third time all year."

In other major games, Ohio University defeated Cleveland State 102-78, Miami edged Kent State 78-76 and Bowling Green fell to Western Michigan 69-60.

In Dayton, Louisville built up an early 15-point lead behind the shooting of Allen Murphy and Wesley Cox. The Cardinals carried a 44-32 lead to the locker room at intermission.

In the second half, the Flyers closed to within seven at one point when Allen Elijah sank two of his 14 game points. But the Cardinals then pulled away again, building a 19-point lead, and the Flyers never challenged again.

"We ran our offense as well and we went to the options well, taking advantage of the other team's weaknesses," Crum said. "Up until now we have not played well against non-conference opponents. Tonight was the change."

Coach Donoher said the next two games for Dayton "are absolute musts for us. But then we'll still be behind."

In Cleveland, Walter Luckett hit 24 points to lead the Ohio Bobcats to a 102-78 victory over Cleveland State in non-conference basketball.

The game was close at first, with Ohio leading 27-26 with 12 minutes remaining in the first half. Then the Bobcats exploded, outscoring Cleveland 22-4 in the next five minutes to pocket a comfortable 49-30 edge.

In Kalamazoo, Western Michigan pounded Bowling Green on the boards to pace its 69-60 Mid-American Conference basketball victory.

Also in the MAC, Miami of Ohio overcame a 14-point deficit to edge Kent State 78-76.

The Redskins trailed by 12 points at the half and didn't catch Kent until Dave Elmer's two free throws tied the score at 52-52 with 13:46 left to play.

Toledo defeated MAC foe Central Michigan 90-74.

In other games, it was Cincinnati over Drake 73-67, Wittenberg over Capital 66-63, Ohio Wesleyan defeated Otterbein 69-65, Findlay smashed Manchester 107-73, and Mount Union downed Marietta 92-72.

Allegheny defeated John Carroll 85-75, Case Western Reserve beat Washington and Jefferson 90-71, Steubenville defeated Youngstown State 47-34, Central State downed West Virginia State 66-55, Delaware trounced Wilmington 97-67, Malone downed Tiffin 76-63 and Urbana smashed Rio Grande 94-56.

Jim Palmer Superstar Contender

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Palmer, whose Cy Young award acclaimed him as the best pitcher in the American League last season, is looking for new worlds to conquer.

Uninvited to the inaugural 10-event Superstar sports competition last year, when he offered to bet $5,000 he could win, the Baltimore Orioles' pitcher finally has a chance to back up his claim.

"I hope they don't remember what I said last year," Palmer cracked, as he headed for Rotunda, Fla., where he will face 11 other athletes next Monday and Tuesday in a qualifying round.

Each contestant is allowed to compete in seven of the 10 events, excluding his own sport. Palmer has selected golf, tennis, bowling, the 880-yard run, the one-mile bicycle race, the 100-meter swim and the 80-yard obstacle course.

Palmer, a slender 28-year-old, bypassed weightlifting, "for obvious reasons," and the 100-yard dash because, "I hear Bobby Bonds can do it in 9.7 seconds."

The swimming event and the obstacle course have Palmer a bit concerned, but he's been practicing enough in the other sports to feel confident.

"Obviously, I haven't practiced the obstacle course," he said, "because cat burglary is about the closest thing to it. That event includes a 12-foot wall, a 12-foot water pit, hurdles, running through tires the way football players do, and crawling through a tunnel."

An accomplished golfer, Palmer regularly shoots in the 70s. He also has been polishing his tennis game, and has done a lot of running and bike riding.

Laurelville News

By MRS. HUGH POLING

Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, Aaron and Beth Ann, were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Reid.

Robert Reid was a guest of the Rev. and Mrs. Lynn Summers and son on Wednesday.

Eleven members were present for the regular monthly meeting of the Laurelville Church of God Missionary Society. The meeting was held in the church basement.

Included in the regular business session of the meeting was the opening with prayer by the president, Margie Ebert. Secretary Carol Holbrook gave the minutes and the treasurer's report.

Thank you cards were read from folks who received fruit baskets at Christmas from the Society. Plans were made to make and sell noodles as a project for the Society. It was agreed by the members to serve the Church Sweetheart Banquet in February for the youth. Secret Pals were drawn for this year.

Margie Ebert read a letter from Martha Mathis concerning election of state officers for Southeastern Ohio Missionary Societies.

Devotions were given by Josephine Hardman. The topic was "Sanctification" and a poem entitled "The World's Bible" was read. The meeting was closed with prayer given by Bertha Wiggins.

Hostesses were Shirley Morens and Margie Ebert.

The Pleasant Valley Home Demonstration Club met Jan. 14 at the home of Mrs. Ramon Sowers. Assisting hostess was Mrs. Madeline Claypool. The meeting was opened by the president reading two poems by Helen Steiner Rice.

The Pledge to the Flag was given and old and new business discussed. Each member reported the sick calls she had made.

Delicious refreshments were served to Mrs. Doris Edwards, Mrs. Dal Van Curren, Mrs. Herman DeLong, Mrs. Jack Notestone, Mrs. Jack Lehman, Mrs. Earl DeLong, Mrs. Dick Karr and Mrs. Rudolph Ebert.

The Laurel Hills United Methodist Women met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Norman Thompson. Assistant hostess was Mrs. Norwood Jinks. Scripture lesson was "Call to Prayer and Self Denial" by Imogene McFadden. She also read scriptures from Micah 6:8 and Matthew 5:9.

Prayer was given by Mrs. Clayton Lutz. The members were dismissed with circle prayer. Lovely refreshments were served to 16 members and two guests.

Mr. and Mrs. John Karr and son Stacy entertained to a carry-in birthday supper on Jan. 15 in honor of Mrs. Karr's mother, Mrs. Johnny Van Fossen. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hunt, son Todd and daughter Vicki, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Van Fossen, son Brent and daughter

Urge State Health Care Company

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Legislative Service Commission committee recommended today a state-operated medical and hospital insurance company to provide health insurance for all Ohioans.

The report, released by Rep. George Mastics, R-3 Cleveland said the insurance plan should be competitive with Blue Cross and Blue Shield but not be a take over of those programs.

Gov. John J. Gilligan's Task Force on Health Care has recommended the state take over Blue Cross and Blue Shield programs.

The LSC committee also recommended establishment of a "health advocate general" within the Department of Health to investigate consumer complaints on health care.

It also suggested regulation of medical insurance companies, prohibiting them from investing excess income in profit-making ventures.

Mastics, chairman of the eight-member committee comprised of legislators, said excess income should be used instead for reduction of premiums or extension of coverage.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hinton and Mr. and Mrs. John Turner have returned from an enjoyable trip to the Rose Bowl Parade and the Rose Bowl Game.

They then flew to Hawaii for a delightful week in Honolulu and many other interesting sights on the islands. They attended the Hula Bowl and a luau at the Hilton Hawaiian Village Hotel. The luau was followed by a very interesting, picturesque floor show.

On Tuesday a scenic boat cruise, which was narrated as they sailed, told the history of the attack on Pearl Harbor. After returning from the cruise and then taking a 45 mile bus trip from Waikiki, they toured the Polynesian Cultural Center, a collection of homes and crafts of the South Sea Islands of Samoa, New Zealand, Fiji, Tahiti, and Tonga.

Natives of these islands performed the evening's musical show "Invitation to Paradise", a beautiful extravaganza of scenery, dancing, and music.

Oil Revenues To Rise Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Staggering price increases in petroleum are expected to raise the revenues of 11 leading oil exporting countries from $22.7 billion in 1973 to $85 billion this year, $100 billion in 1975 and $171 billion in 1980, World Bank President Robert S. McNamara says.

The countries to reap the extra money, according to the report, are: Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi, Qatar, Iraq, Iran, Algeria, Libya, Nigeria, Indonesia and Venezuela.

In a memorandum circulated among executive directors of the bank, McNamara said adjustments of the world economy to these higher prices dominate the economic outlook for 1974.

Rebozo To Face Watergate Panel Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $100,000 campaign gift from billionaire Howard R. Hughes and a subsequent reversal of position by the Justice Department to let Hughes buy a Las Vegas hotel are expected to take center stage as the Senate Watergate committee reopens hearings next week.

Sources said the donation, which was held and later returned to Hughes by President Nixon's friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, came as Hughes was seeking approval to purchase the Dunes hotel and casino.

The Justice Department's antitrust division had blocked the purchase, but sources said then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell overruled the decision after a meeting with Hughes aide Richard G. Danner.

But the sources added that the Senate investigators have been unable to prove Mitchell knew about the $100,000 gift and they pointed out that the hotel purchase plan later fell through for other reasons.

Deputy Counsel Rufus Edmisten said Rebozo will be among the witnesses called in next week's hearings.

The sources said there is also a good chance that Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's former personal lawyer and campaign fundraiser, would be recalled to discuss receipt of a donation from the dairy industry in 1969.

The decision to reopen the committee hearings after two months came Wednesday on a 4-3 party line vote.

The committee, noting that Nixon had never responded to its various requests for a meeting with him, also renewed its request for a face-to-face meeting.

All three Republican members of the committee urged shutting down the

Labeling Restrictions Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp restrictions on the use of such words as "pure," "all" and "100 per cent" on the labels of processed meat products have been proposed by the Agriculture Department.

Current rules permit many products to be labeled "pure," although they contain some seasoning or other additives.

Examples of such products include: pure pork sausage, pure pork luncheon meat, all beef salami and all white turkey roll.

The proposal, open for comment until May 31, follows rules applied to hot dogs after a lawsuit in which it was ruled the use of such labels as "all beef" and "all meat" was misleading because many other ingredients were permitted.

No date was set for the new rules to take effect.

Withdrawal Continues

KILOMETER 101, Egypt (AP) — Israeli planes and ships hauled equipment from the west side of the Suez Canal today, speeding up the withdrawal of Israeli forces to the east side.

Other military hardware lumbered back to the Sinai peninsula over invasions bridges thrown across the canal during last October's Arab-Israeli war.

Army officials said the Israeli forces were ordered not to wreck Egyptian military installations or civilian settlements captured when the Israelis slipped across the canal three months ago.

Even concrete launching pads for Soviet-built Egyptian missiles were being left intact, the officials said.

The Israelis are setting up positions behind their new cease-fire line, 12 miles east of the canal.

Lt. Gen. David Elazar of Israel and Lt. Gen. Mohamed Abdel Ghany Gamasy of Egypt, the two countries' chiefs of staff, continued their meeting at Kilometer 101 on the CairoSuez road to assure that military disengagement agreed to last week goes smoothly.

Daylight Time Confuses Barman

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Daylight Saving Time confused him and that's why he kept his bar open an hour past the legal closing time on Jan. 6, Willie Perry told the City Alcohol Commission.

"I told the ladies to set the clocks backward instead of forward that night," said Perry, manager of the Manhattan Club.

He testified Wednesday at a hearing on whether his license should be lifted. Police said their visit was on the morning year-round Daylight Saving Time took effect, but the commission suspended the club's license for a week.

probe. Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said he wanted the investigative files turned over to the House Judiciary Committee, which is considering the possible impeachment of the President.

The committee also voted to: —Seek a limited extension of its authority beyond the Feb. 28 cutoff date set by the Senate to pursue its court suits to obtain White House documents.

—Present a report on Feb. 28 but to leave open the option of filing a final report later, depending on developments.

—File written questions with the President, and make these questions public, if Nixon does not agree to meet with the committee.

Sources told The Associated Press that previously unpublished material expected to be brought out during the hearings includes evidence that Mitchell, against the advice of antitrust chief Richard McLaren, gave Danner the go-ahead for the Dunes acquisition at a meeting March 20, 1970.

McLaren, the sources said, was not aware that he had been overruled until he received a memorandum from then-FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover expressing concern that Danner, Hughes aide Robert Maheu and attorney Edward P. Morgan — all formerly connected with the bureau — were participating in the proposed Nevada venture.

Hoover reportedly believed it would reflect badly on the FBI if former agents became involved in a major gambling operation.

Energy Board Legislation Introduced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislation creating an Emergency Energy Board to deal with the fuel crisis in Ohio was expected to be introduced in the General Assembly today by the Gilligan administration.

Gov. John J. Gilligan said in a statement the energy bill will give Ohio "the tools it needs to deal with the emergency energy problems facing us now."

He said the board, with an administrator, would be in existence only until June 30, 1975.

"This bill is designed to deal with an emergency situation," the governor said. "It is not designed to create a permanent new agency of state government. It is not designed to eliminate the long-range planning work of the Cabinet Energy Committee."

The board, composed of seven members, four of them subject to Senate confirmation, would have the power to adopt plans for emergency action. Most of those powers would be used, Gilligan said, "only in the event the current energy crisis as we know it grows far worse."

The governor said the bill would give the board the authority to set regulations in such areas as:

- Highway speed limits.
- Gasoline and fuel sales.
- Mass transportation, such as the marshaling of school buses for emergency situations.
- Residential and commercial heating.
- Highway lighting, outdoor advertising and display lighting by public agencies.
- Hours of operation for public and private entities.

The legislature would have the authority to amend or reject the regulations, the governor said.

The measure also provides for the creation of an Energy Advisory Council.

Area Veterans Receive Record Financial Aid

Pickaway County Veterans received record amounts of financial benefits from the Veterans Administration, thru the efforts and services of the Pickaway County Veterans Service Office during fiscal year 1973 which ended June 30.

James P. Shea, County Veterans Service Officer, explained that of the total $1,548,156 received here by 5,305 veterans and their dependents, $397,289 was for readjustment and vocational rehabilitation which includes all educational benefits under the GI Bill.

In compensation and pension, Pickaway County Veterans received, $1,038,048, Shea said, plus another $112,819 in insurance and indemnities.

The fiscal year 1973 makes the 25th consecutive year that Pickaway County Veterans and their dependents have received over one million dollars in VA benefits.

Ohio Speed Limit Slash Progresses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House's new Select Committee on Energy has given tacit approval to a bill lowering Ohio speed limits to 55 miles per hour to conform with the new federal limit.

The nine-member panel discussed the measure at its initial meeting Wednesday night. Chairman Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said the measure will be sent along today to the standing House committee on transportation. The new committee is not empowered to act on bills.

House leaders organized the select committee to receive all bills dealing with energy. It is authorized to set priorities, recommend changes and to hear testimony.

No one testified on the speed limit bill. It must be passed by March 3 to keep Ohio from losing its federal highway matching funds explained Rep. James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland, the main sponsor.

Celebrezze said Ohio would lose about $170 million a year in such funds if it does not act. At the same time, he said passage of the measure would cause the state to lose $11.2 million a year in gasoline tax revenues. The state gets seven cents a gallon on gasoline sold within its borders.

Besides bringing Ohio into compliance with the 55 miles per hour limit, the bill contains language that would allow the state to comply with further federal alterations in speed limits until June 30, 1975.

Celebrezze said it also carries with it the authority to rescind the 55 mile speed if the federal government does. This probably will happen, he said if the nation turns to rationing fuels.

Riffe's committee received from the Reference Committee Wednesday's a resolution that asks an investigation into possible anti-trust law violations by oil and gas companies in Ohio. It probably will be discussed next week, sponsors said.

Rep. John T. McCormack Jr., D-18 Euclid, the chief sponsor among more than three dozen lawmakers, wants to determine, among other things, if the companies have conspired to increase and maintain high prices for fuel, he said.

Rep. Barney Quilter, D-47 Toledo, was elected vice chairman of the new select committee, and Rep. Thomas N. Kindness, R-58 Hamilton, was named secretary.

Rebozo To Face Watergate Panel Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $100,000 campaign gift from billionaire Howard R. Hughes and a subsequent reversal of position by the Justice Department to let Hughes buy a Las Vegas hotel are expected to take center stage as the Senate Watergate committee reopens hearings next week.

Sources said the donation, which was held and later returned to Hughes by President Nixon's friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, came as Hughes was seeking approval to purchase the Dunes hotel and casino.

The Justice Department's antitrust division had blocked the purchase, but sources said then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell overruled the decision after a meeting with Hughes aide Richard G. Danner.

But the sources added that the Senate investigators have been unable to prove Mitchell knew about the $100,000 gift and they pointed out that the hotel purchase plan later fell through for other reasons.

Deputy Counsel Rufus Edmisten said Rebozo will be among the witnesses called in next week's hearings.

The sources said there is also a good chance that Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's former personal lawyer and campaign fundraiser, would be recalled to discuss receipt of a donation from the dairy industry in 1969.

The decision to reopen the committee hearings after two months came Wednesday on a 4-3 party line vote.

The committee, noting that Nixon had never responded to its various requests for a meeting with him, also renewed its request for a face-to-face meeting.

All three Republican members of the committee urged shutting down the

Labeling Restrictions Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp restrictions on the use of such words as "pure," "all" and "100 per cent" on the labels of processed meat products have been proposed by the Agriculture Department.

Current rules permit many products to be labeled "pure," although they contain some seasoning or other additives.

Examples of such products include: pure pork sausage, pure pork luncheon meat, all beef salami and all white turkey roll.

The proposal, open for comment until May 31, follows rules applied to hot dogs after a lawsuit in which it was ruled the use of such labels as "all beef" and "all meat" was misleading because many other ingredients were permitted.

The new rules on hot dog labels went into effect Jan. 1, requiring consumers to be told plainly what the product consists of.

No date was set for the new rules to take effect.

Withdrawal Continues

KILOMETER 101, Egypt (AP) — Israeli planes and ships hauled equipment from the west side of the Suez Canal today, speeding up the withdrawal of Israeli forces to the east side.

Other military hardware lumbered back to the Sinai peninsula over invasions bridges thrown across the canal during last October's Arab-Israeli war.

Army officials said the Israeli forces were ordered not to wreck Egyptian military installations or civilian settlements captured when the Israelis slipped across the canal three months ago.

Even concrete launching pads for Soviet-built Egyptian missiles were being left intact, the officials said.

The Israelis are setting up positions behind their new cease-fire line, 12 miles east of the canal.

Lt. Gen. David Elazar of Israel and Lt. Gen. Mohamed Abdel Ghany Gamasy of Egypt, the two countries' chiefs of staff, continued their meeting at Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez road to assure that military disengagement agreed to last week goes smoothly.

Daylight Time Confuses Barman

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Daylight Saving Time confused him and that's why he kept his bar open an hour past the legal closing time on Jan. 6, Willie Perry told the City Alcohol Commission.

"I told the ladies to set the clocks backward instead of forward that night," said Perry, manager of the Manhattan Club.

He testified Wednesday at a hearing on whether his license should be lifted.

Police said their visit was on the morning year-round Daylight Saving Time took effect, but the commission suspended the club's license for a week.

Area Veterans Receive Record Financial Aid

Pickaway County Veterans received record amounts of financial benefits from the Veterans Administration, thru the efforts and services of the Pickaway County Veterans Service Office during fiscal year 1973 which ended June 30.

James P. Shea, County Veterans Service Officer, explained that of the total $1,548,156 received here by 5,305 veterans and their dependents, $397,289 was for readjustment and vocational rehabilitation which includes all educational benefits under the GI Bill.

In compensation and pension, Pickaway County Veterans received, $1,038,048, Shea said, plus another $12,819 in insurance and indemnities.

The fiscal year 1973 makes the 25th consecutive year that Pickaway County Veterans and their dependents have received over one million dollars in VA benefits.

Ohio Speed Limit Slash Progresses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House's new Select Committee on Energy has given tacit approval to a bill lowering Ohio speed limits to 55 miles per hour to conform with the new federal limit.

The nine-member panel discussed the measure at its initial meeting Wednesday night. Chairman Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said the measure will be sent along today to the standing House committee on transportation. The new committee is not empowered to act on bills.

House leaders organized the select committee to receive all bills dealing with energy. It is authorized to set priorities, recommend changes and to hear testimony.

No one testified on the speed limit bill. It must be passed by March 3 to keep Ohio from losing its federal highway matching funds explained Rep. James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland, the main sponsor.

Celebrezze said Ohio would lose about $170 million a year in such funds if it does not act. At the same time, he said passage of the measure would cause the state to lose $11.2 million a year in gasoline tax revenues. The state gets seven cents a gallon on gasoline sold within its borders.

Besides bringing Ohio into compliance with the 55 miles per hour limit, the bill contains language that would allow the state to comply with further federal alterations in speed limits until June 30, 1975.

Celebrezze said it also carries with it the authority to rescind the 55 mile speed if the federal government does. This probably will happen, he said if the nation turns to rationing fuels.

Riffe's committee received from the Reference Committee Wednesday's a resolution that asks an investigation into possible anti-trust law violations by oil and gas companies in Ohio. It probably will be discussed next week, sponsors said.

Rep. John T. McCormack Jr., D-18 Euclid, the chief sponsor among more than three dozen lawmakers, wants to determine, among other things, if the companies have conspired to increase and maintain high prices for fuel, he said.

Rep. Barney Quilter, D-47 Toledo, was elected vice chairman of the new select committee, and Rep. Thomas N. Kindness, R-58 Hamilton, was named secretary.
